

GOTHAM GREET'S FIVE MORE HEROES

FOUR DEAD IN VIENNA RIOTING

GOVERNMENT TAKES ACTION TO PREVENT ADDED BLOODSHED

National Troops On Hand To Quell Further Riots

BERLIN, July 18.—There was a sporadic outbreak of street rioting in Vienna last night in which four persons were killed, according to a dispatch from Prague today. The same dispatches state that mobs have burned down the dwelling of the Tscharmak family in Schattendorf. It was members of this family who were charged with attacks on Socialists and whose acquittal led to the disastrous rioting, of last week.

Socialists and Fascists are reported spoiling for a fight in Burgenland and threatening a civil war.

According to Prague advices, the Seipel government has resolved not to respond to any demands of the Socialists.

Socialist trade union leaders have ordered the railroad workers to resume operation of trains for the transport of workers only, to refuse ordinary passengers and not to handle any freight except food-stuff.

VIENNA. (Via Bratislava), July 18.—With more than seventy dead and 300 wounded, the Austrian government took vigorous measures today to prevent a recurrence of the rioting which, for a time, threatened to grow into a national revolution.

About 10,000 National troops are stationed in the suburbs and in some districts the police have begun to disarm the rioters.

Government officials claim that all danger of civil war is past. Official denial is made of reports that foreign diplomats asked for intervention by foreign troops. It is admitted that intervention by any of Austria's neighbors might lead to grave international complications in central Europe, for the uprising here has grown into more than a domestic problem.

Chancellor Seipel issued a communique promising to call parliament into special session, but demanding that the Socialists allow freedom of debate without pressure.

Furthermore the chancellor has promised tentatively reorganization of the government in due course of time "so long as it is not carried out under pressure."

Both Chancellor Seipel and Burghard Seitz issued appeals to the public to help maintain law and order, promising an adjustment of the troubles.

The origin of the outbreak remains somewhat obscure. It is reported however that it was precipitated by a few hundred communists who began shooting during a demonstration by Socialists in front of the Palace of Justice. A share of the blame is placed upon the Social Democrats, also.

Flags are flying at half mast in the workers' quarters and many houses are draped with mourning for the dead.

Funerals for the victims will be held on Wednesday when more trouble may break out. However, strong military and police precautions will be taken to preserve order on that day.

CORNER ALLEGED CLEVELAND BANDIT

CLEVELAND, O., July 18.—Authorities were today awaiting word from Dubois, Pa., where Joseph Russell, alleged "Smoked Glasses" bandit, who has been credited with over a score of robberies here, is reported surrounded by Pennsylvania state troopers and Cleveland detectives.

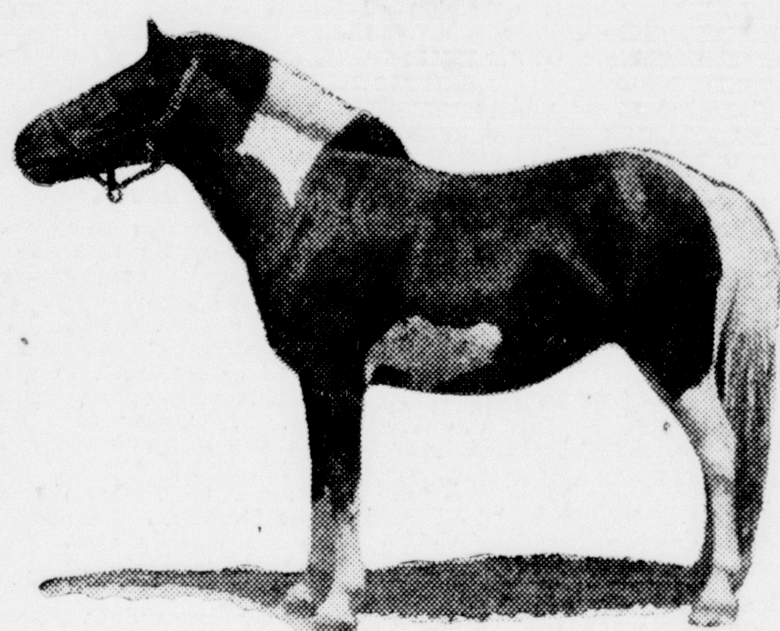

Russell, according to reports reaching here, is in a shack on top of a mountain near Dubois, and has been quoted as saying he would "shoot it out," before submitting to an arrest. The youth escaped from Cleveland detectives about ten days ago, after an alleged attempt to kill an officer who had him in charge.

In his flight from this city, Russell is said to have traversed five states, first going to Indiana, thence returning east through Ohio and West Virginia, to Niagara Falls, N. Y., and then going to Pennsylvania.

POLICEMAN HELD

NEW YORK, July 18.—A charge of homicide was placed today against Patrolman Walker Sharland, 50, following a shooting in which a woman was killed, and the policeman was critically wounded. All shots were fired from his own revolver. The dead woman is Mrs. Christina Yuilian, 45.

RETURNING AIRMEN MET WITH PLAUDITS OF MILLION PEOPLE

Lindbergh Among First To Congratulate Byrd, Chamberlin And Companions—Official Welcome Extended Flyers.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Five more heroic trans-Atlantic aviators returned home today to receive the acclaim of the nation which sent them out on their perilous flights to Europe.

Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd and his crew, Bert Acosta, George Noville and Bernt Balchen, who flew from New York to Ver-Sur-Mer, France, and Clarence Chamberlin, who piloted his plane from America to Kottbus, Germany, arrived at Quarantine this morning aboard the Leviathan.

At Quarantine the Leviathan was met by the reception boat, Macom, bearing officials, family and friends of the fliers. Among the first to greet the aviators and congratulate them on their successful flights was Charles Lindbergh.

As the Macom made its way up the harbor amid the din of welcome, scores of planes circled overhead, the roar of their motors adding to the general pandemonium.

New York, as usual, was ready to pay tribute with noise, confetti, processions, speeches and allied ovations. It was estimated that a million or so, hero-worshipping residents of this city and visitors from other cities were on hand.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur came from Washington to help greet the flyers for Byrd is a navy officer.

Col. Lindbergh was invited to go down the bay along with Secretary Wilbur, Grover Whalen and the members of the mayor's welcoming committee to give the home-coming the hand of greeting.

The fortress on Governor's Island, headquarters of the department of the East, U. S. A., was under orders to fire a salute of nine guns for Byrd, as he has an official status.

The city steamer Macom, bearing the officials representing the nation and city, took Byrd and his companions on board about 11:30. The next event on the program was a marine procession up the harbor to pier A, where all sorts of harbor craft with their sirens gong full blast.

The Macom was due at pier A at or about 2:10 p. m.

When the aviators step ashore they will be met by a procession made up of soldiers, sailors, marines and national guardsmen to escort them to City Hall where Mayor Walker will deliver an address of welcome and present to them the medal of valor of the city of New York.

Chamberlin will leave the ceremonies immediately afterward flying from Mitchell Field to Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., his home, where a big reception was arranged for him by Governor Moore, of New Jersey.

The ceremonies in New York will last about four days.

The New York Southern Society appointed a special committee to welcome Byrd, who is a native of Virginia.

Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Chamberlin on his trans-oceanic flight to Germany, remained in Europe.

AMERICAN CONSUL SERIOUSLY HURT BY MEXICAN ATTACKER

Wounded By Man He Discovered In Home In Puerto, Mexico

WASHINGTON, July 18.—William Chapman, 40, American consul at Puerto, Mexico, was shot in his home by an armed intruder early Sunday morning according to a message received at the state department today from the British vice consul there.

The report of the shooting said Chapman heard a noise in the kitchen and upon going to investigate was confronted with a Mexican who pointed a revolver at him. Chapman backed into the hall and the intruder followed, firing one shot which penetrated the consul's breast. He is seriously, though not necessarily fatally, injured, the department's advices said.

Chapman was born in Mt. Pisgah, Ark., but his home is listed in state department records as Alluwe, Okla.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—United States Consul William Chapman, stationed in Puerto, Mexico, was shot and probably fatally injured on Saturday morning, according to information received by the United States embassy today from the British vice consul in Puerto Mexico.

The bullet entered the left side near the heart.

Chapman was transferred recently to Puerto Mexico from Torreon. He was under orders to cooperate in a campaign against run runners who were operating out of Puerto, Mexico.

MARINES FIGHT NICARAGUA REBELS

UNITED STATES FORCES FACE NEW BATTLE; LABOR PROTESTS

Airplanes Save Day For Small Detachment Attacked Saturday—One Marine Killed In Fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 18.—United States marine reinforcements are marching toward Ocotal today, where a sharp battle was fought on Saturday between some two score marines, supported by fifty native constables, and a band of several hundred rebels under the leadership of General Sandino.

There have been difficulties for several weeks with General Sandino, who has refused to lay down arms, and the efforts of the marines, and their native supporters, killed some fifty rebels and wounded 250 others. One marine was killed and another wounded.

Marine airplanes came to the aid of the men attacked by the rebels, and much of the burden of the fighting is said to have been borne by five pilots and their machine-guns. They swooped low over the rebels, who had the small band of marines cornered, and cut down the attackers with a rain of machine-gun bullets.

Aerial observers returning here report great bravery on the part of the defending marines and they also declare that the rebel dead and wounded have been left on the battle-field without attention. Efforts are being made to send out relief trains from here to care for the wounded and carry out burial work.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A protest over the "warfare" between Nicaraguan Liberals and American marines was lodged with the state department today by Wm. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green was actuated in making the protest by information supplied to him by two Nicaraguan delegates to the Pan-American labor conference, opening here today. He intimated that the public had been deceived into believing that peace had been re-established in Nicaragua and that arrangements had been made for a new election there.

"Now it appears that bloodshed is imminent and destruction of life is seriously threatened. We shrink from contemplation of such a situation."

Green concludes his protest with a request that Secretary of State Kellogg prevent the use of American armed forces in Nicaragua.

A determined group of Nicaraguan Liberals, commanded by Gen. Sandino, have refused to accept the so-called Stimson peace plan which was forced upon Nicaragua by President Coolidge's personal envoy, Henry L. Stimson, aided by U. S. Marines.

BEES DEFY VOLSTEAD

GALLIPOLIS, O.—William Harper, a farmer living on Devil's Hole creek, near Middleport, has filed a complaint with the prohibition officers about the temptations confronting his bees, and which he said have almost ruined his once prosperous apiary.

His bees start out sober to hunt honey, he says, but return to the hives staggering drunk. They are met by the sober and home-loving industrious bees, promptly killed, and their bodies thrown to the ground in front of the hives.

Harper believes his bees are feeding at some of the moonshine plants in the hills near his home.

WEDDING DRESS IS NOW SHROUD

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 18.—The dress she intended to wear at her wedding served today as the shroud covering the body of Miss Bertha Long, 42, due to the tragic ending of a love triangle.

Miss Long was shot to death and John Turner, perhaps fatally wounded early Sunday by William Cirkles, 63, turned lover, who suicided by turning the weapon upon himself.

The shooting took place, officers said, when Cirkles met Miss Long and Turner in Turner's auto.

Parents of Miss Long said that she was to have married another man Sunday afternoon.

WILE SAYS:

Battle Looms
Favor Strong Arm
Wood Under Fire
Maybe Wadsworth?

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Coolidge's plan, recommended by his special commissioner, Colonel Carmel A. Thompson, to transfer the administration of the Philippines from the war department to the interior department is to meet with strong opposition in congress.

Friends of General Leonard Wood, in both house and senate, will take the lead in fighting the Coolidge-Thompson program. They will argue that any relaxation of the strong hand at Manila, such as substitution of civilian for military direction there, will inevitably undermine American authority and breathe dangerous life into the independence movement.

General Wood's supporters at Washington say that Quezon and Osmena—the restless leaders of the Filipino "politicos"—would look upon adoption of the Coolidge-Thompson scheme as a decisive battle in the lead in fighting the Coolidge-Thompson program.

Gov. Al Smith of New York, was eliminated as a presidential nominee because he was "too wet." The South Dakota executive simplified his own statement by remarking that he, a Protestant, was rearing his three children in the Catholic Church.

With Smith eliminated to his own satisfaction, Gov. Bulow chose Senator James A. Reed of Missouri as the probable Democrat presidential nominee.

LENDEL CONVICTED OF MURDER CHARGE; SENTENCED TO LIFE

Guards Watch Former Chief To Prevent Suicide Effort

CANTON, O., July 18.—The curtain having dropped on the Don Mellett murder trials, attention was centered today upon the distribution of rewards to those who played prominent parts in the unraveling of the mystery which surrounded the case a year ago.

William Betzler, of Massillon, and Steve Naschok, of Nanty Glo, Pa., were reported in line for a part of the several thousand dollar offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayers of the Canton publisher, while Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective ace, is said to be entitled to a generous share of the sum.

A close watch was being maintained today over Saranus A. Lengel, former Canton police chief, convicted Saturday of complicity in the Mellett slaying. Lengel faces life imprisonment and has been quoted as saying, "I don't care to live now." He slept very little Saturday night, according to authorities.

DILAPIDATED AUTOS AND MEN

The so-called "gasoline gypsies," people who are wandering around the country in dilapidated automobiles and depending to a large extent on the generosity of charitable people, are causing annoyance in various parts of the country.

When one can buy an ancient car for a small amount of money that may with some tinkering run a good many miles, there is a chance for folks with a wandering nature to get around a good deal with it.

These folks must be hopeful and good natured people who always think there is something better in the next town. They hear that there is work and prosperity in a certain city, and they think if they could only get there, they would find jobs and money. But when they get there, they usually find conditions about the same as they were in the last place. They are no doubt able to obtain many gifts of clothing and supplies.

If such families have children, the chances of these youngsters for education and settled habits of industry must be poor.

Apparently a good many men who 25 years ago would have been ordinary tramps, begging their way from door to door, have developed this modern method of roving, which saves much hard riding on freight cars. There are many fellows who will work when they need money, but are too restless to hold one job long. Charitable people should be cautious about contributing to their hard luck tales. What these people need is to settle down in one place and make good at some useful job. The old saying is true that a rolling stone gathers no moss.

ANOTHER RESULT OF GENIUS

That Americans more and more are becoming an efficient people, is shown by a study of the manufactures census figures of the Department of Commerce.

The physical volume of manufactures produced per person increased nearly 50 percent from 1899 to 1925, reflecting a growth of 180 percent in quantity of production and of less than 90 percent in number of persons engaged.

Expansion in output per person has been particularly large during recent years, amounting to 10 percent in the two years from 1923 to 1925, and to 40 percent in the six years from 1919 to 1925.

Growth in output per person may be attributed to increasing utilization of machinery and electric power, introduction of various sorts of labor-saving devices and methods, growth of mass production of standardized articles, elimination of waste, planning of production in relation to general business conditions, and other economies resulting from improvements in methods and management.

The Way of the World

THE VICAR SAYS MUCH

A tax on lip sticks—that's what the vicar of an English church wants.

Here in America we do not feel very badly about the many millions a year women spend on rouge, powder, lip sticks and the like. We in America love beauty and we are for everything that enhances it—even though it comes high.

Even taxes aren't so bad if you have something bright to show for your taxes.

WATCH ITALY

The Italian cabinet, thinking rents too high, casually approves a decree forbidding increases. Mussolini seems to have within reach all sorts of quick and handy ways of getting results.

The Italian experiment, which is not democracy, is worth watching.

"BUILDING AIRWAYS"

Along with our enthusiasm for more and better national highways we now begin to talk new national airways. Few realize what is being done in the matter of airways. Today the government is establishing and lighting national airways with 200,000,000 candle power revolving searchlights every ten miles. Boundary lighted landing fields, averaging 40 acres in extent and about 30 miles apart, are included in government plans.

Don't get the idea Uncle Sam is slow.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

Everybody asks the question: "How's business?" Surveys show business is better so far in 1927 than the forecasts promised. Freight carriage of the railroads has been at new high levels. On the average, wages are better today than ever before. The well-being of the country, however, is not evenly distributed. Business is much better in some places than others. On the whole we are having a good year. Prosperity is in the saddle and big business men, profiting by mistakes of the past, have learned some things about keeping it there.

AS TO SIMPLICITY

A letter from Dr. Grenfell, who is giving his life to helping folks in far off Labrador, is interesting. He says: "I don't think people in the United States quite realize how primitive we are in the North. The odd thing is that simplicity and honesty and unselfishness go together. As I go around the world I seem to notice that the advent of modern civilization seems to displace them."

Are we paying too high a price for this civilization of ours?

ANYWAY, WE NEED THE HEART

A famous German physician advances the theory that the heart is not the prime motive power for life. He says the cells of the body, absorbing and eliminating fluids, are the chief motive power in forcing the blood through the system. Well, he may be right, but we still need the heart for purposes of romance.

WHERE THE HEALTHY SURVIVE

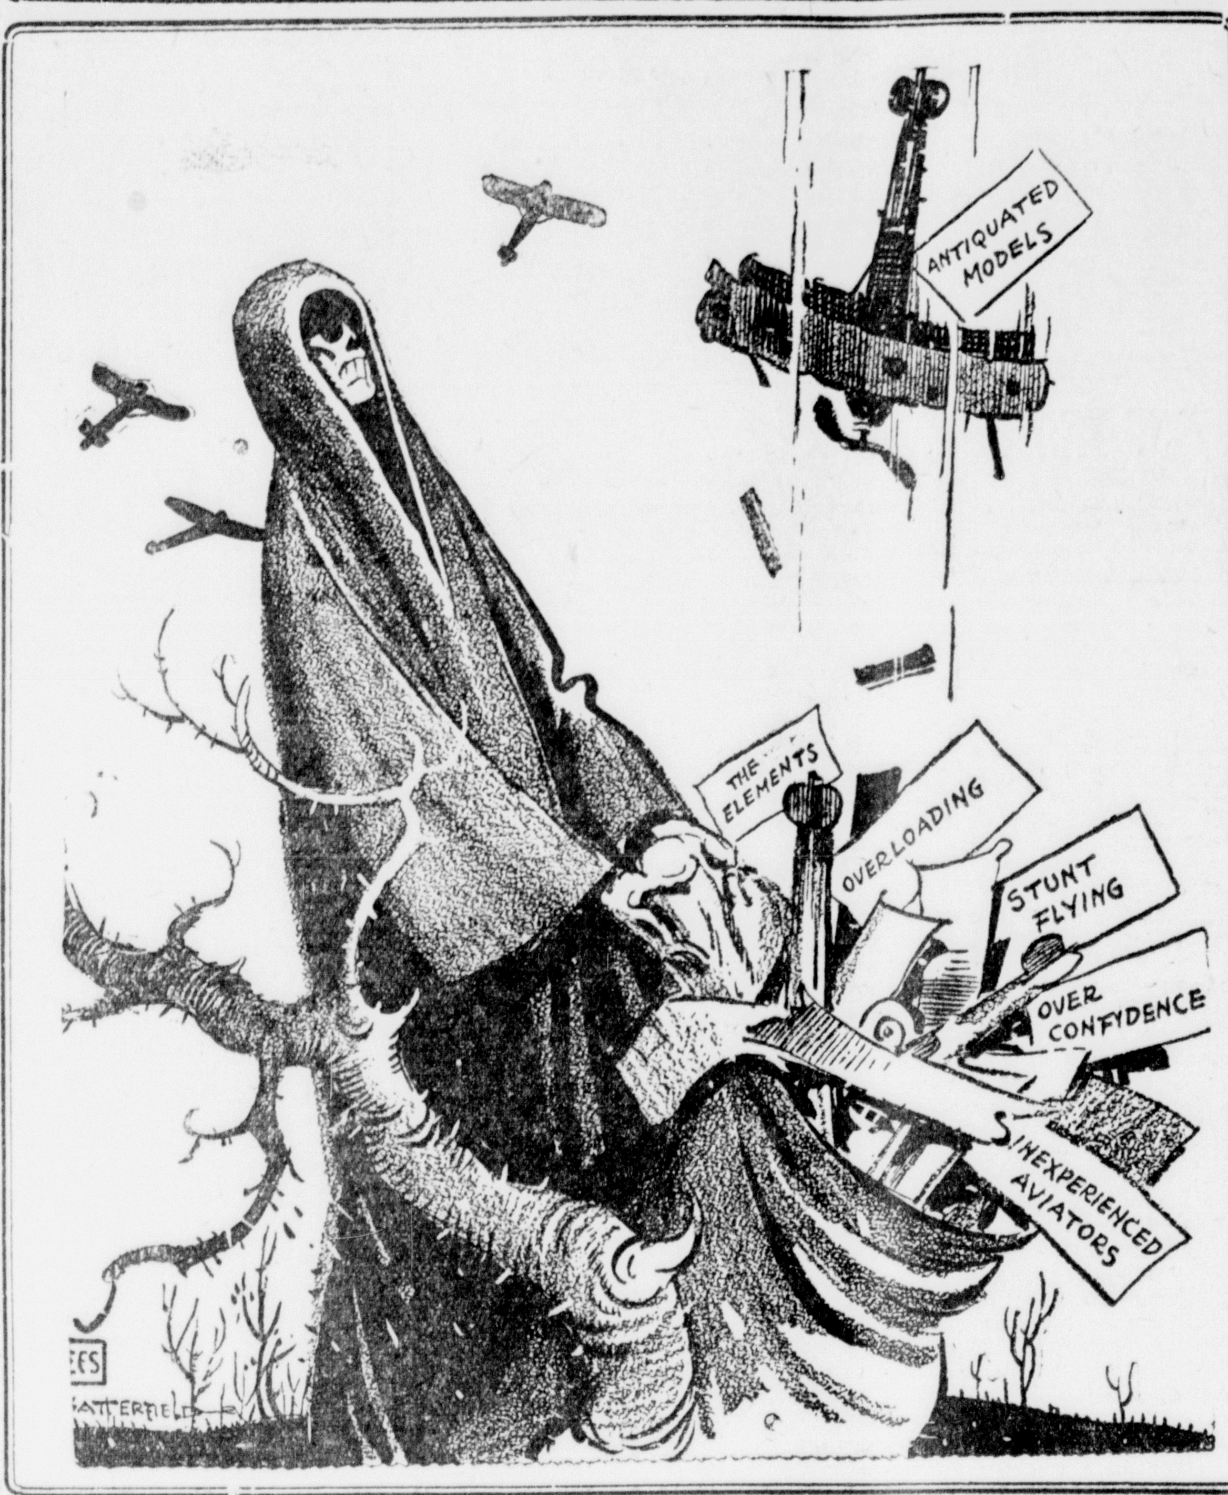

Dr. Crile, famous Ohio surgeon, has been hunting lions in Africa. He is impressed with the health of the animals he found. They furnish a perfect example of the survival of the fittest. They live in a land where there is nothing to interfere with the natural processes of evolution.

CIVILIZATION MAKES US WEAK

The lion does well because nobody protects the weak ones. If they are weak or sick they die. The strong ones live and have strong offspring. Among us humans we take care of the weak. We are civilized. We must keep alive the unfit because it is what we call a moral thing to do. Thus we interfere with the natural process of evolution.

After all, there's nothing to do about it. We must be kind.

YOUR EXPENSES FOR KEEPING CLEAN

Some hot day I'm going to lie in a hammock or porch swing and try to figure out what proportion of one's income must be spent just in trying to keep clean.

The most costly room in the average home is the bathroom. A big part of our taxes goes for sewers and clean streets.

No equally small surface in the world is the subject of so much expense for scrubbing and polishing as the teeth. Costs of advertising tooth-cleaning preparations run into millions of dollars each year.

The same thing is true of soap. Laundry bills are an important item in every household.

In short, life is a constant struggle against the forces of dirt.

True, in many respects our fight is carried on with noteworthy stupidity and inefficiency.

Much of our clothing is unwashable—because of the need of wearing articles of more expensive design and material than washable goods, to meet demands of fashion.

We could wear clothing as washable as a heavy flannel shirt, but this would not be stylish.

If we were scientific we should wear nothing longer than a few days without associating it with soap and water.

Even our shoes might be of cheap material and often replaced; thus they would always be newer and cleaner than shoes that have been worn for months.

However, while we might be more cleanly than we are, a vast industrial army is constantly at work trying to keep ahead of dirt, at a daily cost of millions of dollars.

With the spread of industrial centers this, of course, becomes greater each year, for such places mean soot, grime, congestion and perspiration.

But while it is costly, cleanliness is worth the price. Cleanliness is civilization. It is decency. I'm even half inclined to coin a phrase and say that cleanliness is next to godliness.

A big store recently had various employees, who knew one another, to rate themselves and other members of their group as to certain character traits.

The test showed that we humans are inclined to underestimate our Cleanliness, Industry and Orderliness.

But we overestimate our Punctuality, Enthusiasm, Patience and Thrift.

C. wants to know if it is true that one's bowels can be lined with hardened refuse matter and still allow a good bowel movement each day through the center? And will colonic irrigations be good for this?

No, it is not true. C. that one could have a good bowel movement each day and have this happen. A good bowel movement implies that it is good-sized and firm; if the stools are constantly stringy and watery and there are profound symptoms of auto-intoxication, we might consider the possibility of retained refuse. Then colonic irrigations no doubt would be good (in the hands of a competent nurse, under the direction of a physician). But the whole program of hygiene would also have to be carried out, including an examination by a competent physician and an X-ray. Colonic irrigations are greatly overdone, I believe.

It is the consensus of opinion of most physicians that if there is a good bowel movement once a day, it will clean out the tract so there is no danger of any absorption. Some believe that the bowels should move after each meal.

Aside from diseases of the intestinal tract, there are many causes of constipation, chief among which are the following:

1. Insufficient quantity of solid food, or too much of the highly concentrated foods which are almost completely absorbed, leaving too little bulk to excite the normal peristalsis (the wormlike movement by which the alimentary canal propels its contents).

2. Too much food: Overeating. The accumulation of waste matter may be greater than the muscle power to propel. Obesity.

3. Insufficient fluids, especially water.

4. Irregularity in diet, and imperfect mastication.

5. Enfeebled intestinal muscles due to lack of exercise and too little oxygen, resulting in sluggish circulation and a tendency to diminish general functional activity.

6. The failure to take a regular time for evacuation of the bowels.

7. Drugs, including physics.

8. Worry over your condition.

TREATMENT.—1. Stop worrying about your constipation after you take measures to correct it. "Tranquility and lack of thinking too much about any of your functions will permit them to work better."

2. Don't over or under eat, and have a balanced diet; for most types of constipation it should contain considerable roughage. Drink sufficient water. Eat the whole grain cereals and breads and more laxative foods, including many vegetables and fruits.

3. Regular time for evacuation. Food is the best stimulus to the movement of the intestinal tract; therefore, plan for this important time after a meal.

4. Exercise, especially brisk walking, and the abdominal exercises. (If you haven't the article "Abdominal Wall," better send for it. Enclose only a self-addressed stamped envelope with request.)

5. No drugs (or colonic irrigations) unless under the directions of your physician. As long as you continue to take physics, you will have to depend upon them. It is far better to correct your constipation by correcting your habits than it is to use physics. When you stop their use, remember it will be three to five days before your bowels will move normally. But don't give in. Take small, cool enemata, if necessary.

(The treatment of the constipation where there is much mucus and pain should be under the care of your personal physician. For some of these cases, a smooth diet with all roughage omitted for a period, is recommended.)

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBENSTEIN

SUMMER COSMETICS SHOULD REFLECT THE COLOR SCHEME OF YOUR WARDROBE

Summer is Nature's season of color and we humans, like chameleons, should reflect it. With the advent of the warm days there is nothing more refreshing than frocks of cool crisp linens, organdies, dimities and voiles.

And to don one is as cooling and invigorating as drinking a cool glass of water or eating an ice cold piece of watermelon. These are the things which help give resistance against the sultriness of summer's heat.

But woe be to the woman who gives thought and care to the choice of dainty clothes but neglects the texture and coloring of her skin. For nothing shows up an ill-colored skin more glaringly than a dainty filmy frock. And by the same token there is nothing so lovely as a dainty woman in a dainty frock, especially if her complexion, hands and arms are smooth, fresh and clean.

However, it is not enough to just care for your skin and choose a pretty frock. The consideration of color should enter into the selection. The shade of a dress should blend with the coloring of the hair and skin and the skin must take on a tone that enhances the shade of the frock.

In other words, your summer powders, rouges and lipsticks should not only be selected with the thought of making the most of the coloring of your hair and eyes but must also harmonize with your frocks.

It is therefore, important that you know the sort of make-up that is most flattering in combination with the new colors which are most becoming to your particular type.

The newest effects in smart make-up for daytime calls for little rouge. A powder should be used that exactly blends with the tone of the skin and that doesn't appear apparent. Or a slightly darker powder may be used to give a sunburned effect if this is becoming to you.

However, when it comes to the use of the lipstick, one can afford to be frankly artificial as it is smart just now to make the mouth the one spot on which attention is focused.

But as I said before, rules are general, and should be modified as the fundamental color scheme of your costume is changed.

When I see run runners and those who patronize them who are still more criminal, wonder whether God will not judge me more severely because of the advantages I have had when many of these other men have had no praying mothers, no Godly fathers and never had any personal teaching about God. Who is to blame for the wildness of our young people? Who brought them up? Who trained them? You folks who find fault with them."—The Rev. C. W. Gordon, (Ralph Connor.)

"Within the next fifteen or twenty years there will be a world war which will not be localized in any sense of the word. Every country will take part in it and the combatants will include not only the manhood, but the women and children of every nation. Younger women probably will take an even more active part in the war of the future. The nation in arms will comprise not only every available man, but every woman and child, since all will have allotted to them some definite task. Battles will be fought not only by land and sea, but in the air, where planes will fight not singly or in squadrons, but in series masses."—Marshal Foch.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, July 18.—That free and extemporary amusement which is to be had all over New York is not absent in the most dignified of streets, Park avenue.

Driving down that thoroughfare the other afternoon I was halted by the traffic lights at Sixty-seventh street. There a young woman was trying to cross in her car. She let out her clutch; the car jerked forward, and the engine died. She started the motor; it roared and the car careened backward. It stopped, bumped crazily forward as though it were drunk, and finally the lady at the wheel had the car in hand, and got across. But not until taxicab drivers had passed remarks, such as: "Them women drivers ought not to be allowed to drive a car."

At Seventy-fourth street three young men were fooling with a bottle of milk, trying to open it. One jabbed a knife into the pasteboard stopper, while the others bent their heads and watched the operation. The milk bottle acted as milk bottles are in the habit of acting when opened by inept hands. The milk sprayed out with a great explosion, covering the youths with white liquid. The bystander who seemed to enjoy their plight the most was an elderly gentleman with a beard, nattily dressed in a cutaway coat, striped trousers and top hat. He nearly doubled up with laughter. In fact, he laughed so hard he nearly got run over by a truck.

No funny-paper story could be more improbable than the things that happen every morning at most suburban railroad stations near New York. At these stations in the morning there is always a line of cars waiting to discharge husbands who are on the way to town. Invariably each car contains one husband and one wife. The husband is driving. He stops the car at the station platform, he kisses his wife, and she slides over into the driver's seat. When he has taken about ten steps the little woman usually calls him back to ask him for money. He dips into his pocket, hands her a bill, and she drives off.

In the evening the process is reversed. The wife drives to the station and parks the car. Husband gets out. When he reaches the car he leans over and kisses the wife. She slides over from the driver's seat and he takes the wheel and drives off.

Certainly there is nothing wrong in this. And personally I approve of the custom. It is a routine custom into which my wife and I are habituated like other commuters. I should like to see one of these wives (not mine) when her husband bends over to give her the evening kiss, give him a good sock on the nose.

One of the biggest successes of the recent bills at the New York motion picture houses has been news reel depicting the president at his birthday party in the Black Hills. A mounted troupe of Boy Scouts, it seems, presented him with a 10-gallon hat, a pair of ornate high-heeled boots, spurs, and chaps, neckerchief and colored shirt.

When the picture of Mr. Coolidge was thrown on the screen it so outdid the audience broke into sales of laughter. Puzzled by this lack of reverence, I made inquiry at several theaters where the news reel was shown, and discovered that the spectators never failed to react in precisely that way.

Engineering progresses with the needs of the city. It is no uncommon thing in New York to see such a technical miracle as the building of a five-story building in order to insert a series of stories on the ground floor.

According to an interview with Lillian Gish in a magazine, Miss Mabel Normand "must be pursued by an evil genius. She hasn't an unkind thought in her head. It just happens that she is always around when the gun goes off."

The Theatre

Xenians who are fortunate enough to spend their vacation in the east, and who will have an opportunity to take in some of the New York summer shows, (which, by the way, are few and far between) are advised by all reviewers to see "Hit the Deck" the romping musical show, translated into Vincent Youman's blithe score from David Belasco's production of "Shore Leave."

It is at the Belasco Theater, just as Frances Starr's romance was unfolded in years gone. It is a fresh buoyant tale of a gob from a battleship who gets engaged to a little girl in a coffee-house in the most casual way, wanders off forgetfully and then comes back to find the girl of his coffee and sinks is the girl of his dreams.

Louise Groody is a stimulating dancer in "Hit the Deck," and of course you have heard one of the headlines I'm happy, in which "Sometimes I'm Happy," in which Miss Groody harmonizes with Charles King. James Rennie took the part of the gob played by King in the new version of the piece. Others of the more seasoned musical shows from preceding months are still in stock to be highly recommended. Judicious expenditure would mean seeing Ziegfeld's "Rio Rita," "Oh, Kay," Helen Ford in "Peggy Ann," "The Desert Song," and "Honeymoon Lane."

John Gilbert has announced that he may retire from film work, for "five, ten or fifteen years" or that he may form his own company and "have pictures to suit himself." Gilbert said that he was not on speaking terms with his present employers and named dissatisfaction over the stories supplied him as the main cause for the break.

Florence Reed, star of the "Shanghai Gesture" recovering in Los Angeles from a throat operation, suffered a relapse Wednesday when news of the death of her mother, Mrs. Roland Reed, in New York, was given her. Miss Reed is still in Hollywood Hospital.

Fatty Arbuckle scored a personal hit in the revival of the farce-comedy, "Baby-Mine" but the piece was too old-fashioned to appeal to this modern day. Its Broadway run lasted a week.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Mrs. Jones—"I'm always so pleased when I run across new recipes for cooking vegetables."

Mrs. Brown—"I know, they're so good for one, but it is tiresome always fixing them the same way."

BEET JELLY

Two tablespoons gelatine.
Half cup cold water.
Half cup vinegar.
Two cups boiling water.
One and a half teaspoons salt.
Quarter cup sugar.
One cup minced beets.
One minced onion.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water and the vinegar. Add the boiling water, preferably the water in which the beets were cooked, sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved. Stand in cold water, and when the mixture begins to thicken add the beets and onions and place in the ice box to set. Unmold on lettuce or cabbage leaves.

ESCALLOPED LIMA BEANS

Soak two cups of lima beans over night. Discard the water in which they were soaked, wash them again and put on to boil. Cook until tender, drain well and add salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Place in a casserole, cover the beans with sweet cream or with whole milk and butter, sprinkle the top with dried bread crumbs, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven (325 F.) for one hour, removing the cover the last fifteen minutes.

As a variation one cup of finely diced salt pork may be used with the milk in place of the butter. This gives an especially good flavor.

MUSIC AND CHURCH PROGRAM FEATURE CHAUTAUQUA WEEK END

Ellsworth Gilbert's Gypsy Revellers, a group of talented vocalists, offering a costumed production featuring songs of the vagabonds, proved one of the outstanding attractions of the week's program at the Redpath Chautauqua Saturday night.

This exceptional group was trained by Mr. Gilbert, Kansas City, who is himself a musician of prominence and trains all groups of singers who appear on Redpath Chautauqua circuits throughout the country.

The stage setting in the first part of the program showed the gypsies in camp enjoying an informal season of song. Unusual lighting effects were produced and a touch of spectacular was added to the program in the final part.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. Lewis Earle Lee, Cincinnati, executive secretary of the Hamilton County Sunday School Council of Religious Education, was introduced by the Rev. Mr. Tilford.

Dr. Lee spoke on the subject, "Childhood's Opportunities in Religious Education," approaching the topic from a historical standpoint and his sermon was well received. Dr. Shank gave the benediction.

BIGAMIST APT POT WASHER AUBURN, N. Y.—A veteran of three marriages, Raymond Eugene Losey of Endicott, is making an "apt" pot washer at Auburn State Prison here where he is serving a one to three year term for bigamy.

Pot washing is not a new chore for Losey, who was sent here from coming by County Judge Edwin S. Brown, for he has often helped out one of his three wives in various times with the kitchen work.

But in "them days" Losey was at liberty to refuse to aid the wife whenever the inclination was lacking, but not so "these days," for he is being closely watched by his guards.

For a whole month he will wash the pots and scrub floors at the prison, and if he behaves himself will be given a post in the prison factory or office.

He commended the fact that the youngsters had recorded a 100 per cent vote in electing their officers, and advised Xenians to follow this example at the August primary.

The Chautauqua tent was filled to capacity for the Sunday afternoon and evening programs.

In the afternoon B. P. Hivale, native of British India, introduced by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, spoke on missionary life in India and of the progress being made. Mr. Hivale is a Congregational minister and the son of a Congregational minister, and told of his experiences as a boy with his father.

The evening union church program was in charge of the Xenia Ministerial Association. Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M.

magic, including weird psychic phenomena, delighted Chautauqua patrons at a special junior attraction or children's feature Monday afternoon. The program was given in the midst of regal stage settings and Mr. Birch's bag of tricks contained an apparently unlimited number of stunts designed especially for youngsters.

Monday evening the clever dramatic offering, "The Patsy," will be given. Panned for its brilliant dialogue, this comedy success enjoyed long runs in New York and Chicago and was recently put on by a stock company at the Victory Theatre in Dayton.

More entertainment is on the bill for Tuesday. The Conservatory Artists are on the program for the afternoon and quality and variety are combined in this company of five vocalists and instrumentalists. Edgar Sprague, tenor; Dora Andreas, contralto and pianist; Dorothy Kempe, cellist; Marion Kempe, violinist, and Sam Adams, violinist and pianist, comprise this talented group.

In the evening these artists will again be heard preceding a lecture by Ralph Parlette, humorous philosopher, just returned from a world tour. His philosophy is said to be unique, and his community talk, "Swat the Snake," is a classic. Late in May he returned from a world tour after five months of rare experiences.

CONTENDERS FOR SENATE SEAT

Finis Garrett (left), for six years Democratic leader in the House of Representatives, is out for the Senate seat now held by Kenneth D. McKellar (right), and lines are forming in Tennessee for a bitter Democratic primary. Washington regards the contest as perhaps the most significant of the Senate struggles next year. McKellar is an anti-Smith man.

HENRY FORD TAKES IT ALL BACK

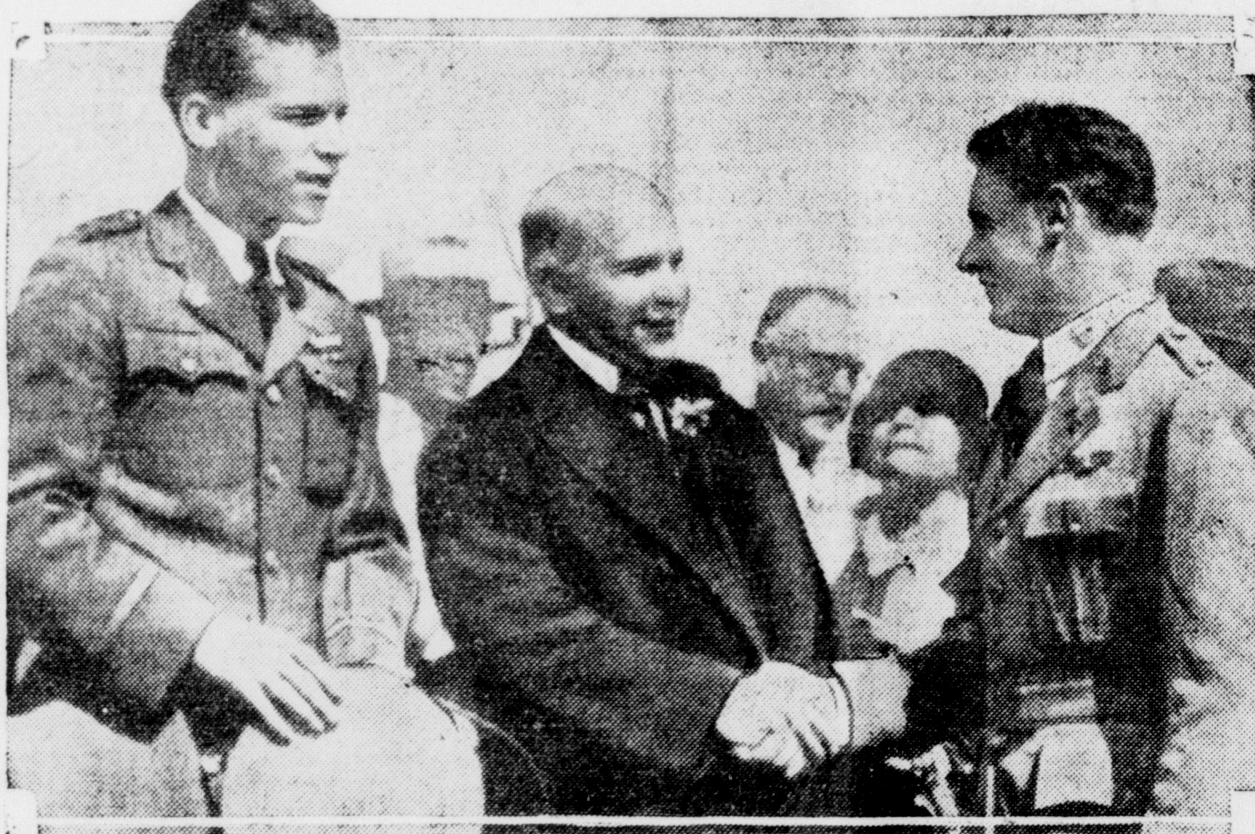

Many of the articles which periodically in The Dearborn Independent and have been reprinted in the pamphlets mentioned, justified the righteous indignation entertained by Jews everywhere toward me because of the mental anguish occasioned by the unprovoked reflections made upon them.

Those who know me can bear witness that it is not in my nature to inflict insult upon and to occasion pain to anybody, and that it has been my effort to free myself from prejudice. Because of that I frankly confess that I have been greatly shocked as a result of my study and examination of the files of The Dearborn Independent and of the pamphlets entitled "The International Jew." I deem it to be my duty as an honorable man to make amends for the wrong done to the Jews as fellow-men and brothers, by asking their forgiveness for the harm that I have unintentionally committed, by retracting so far as lies within my power the offensive charges laid at their door by these publications, and by giving them the unqualified assurance that henceforth they may look to me for friendship and goodwill.

Henry Ford

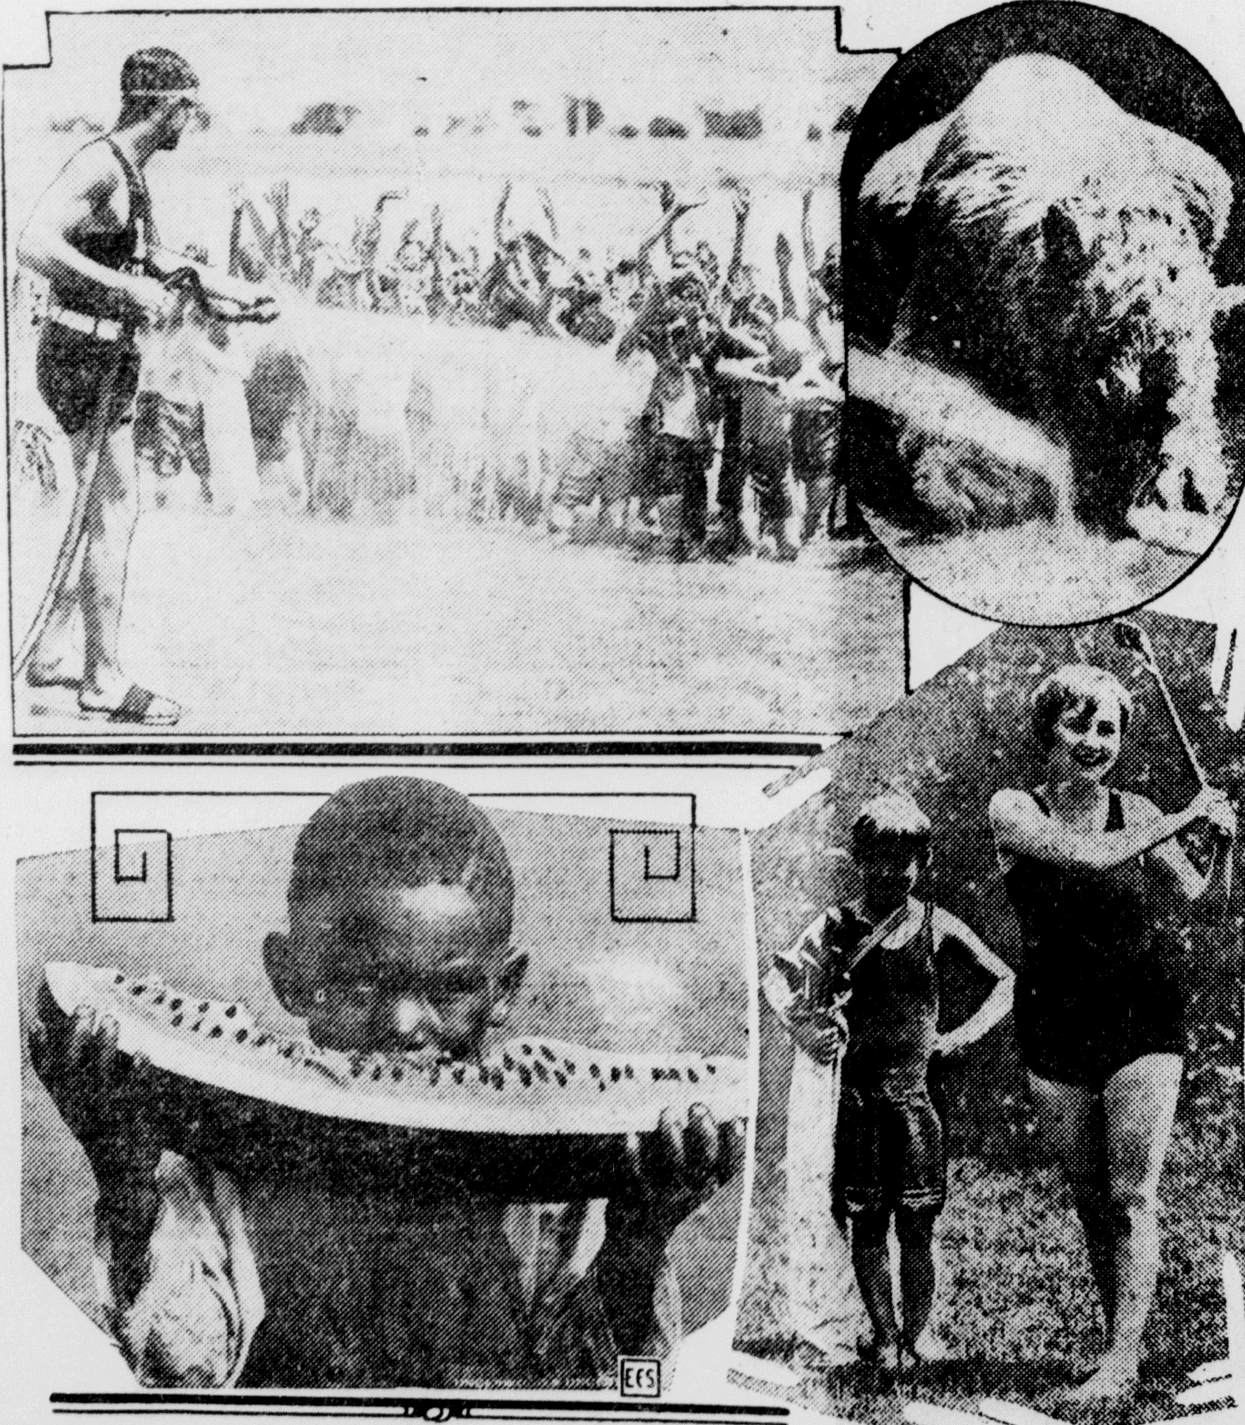

Above is a photographic reproduction of the paragraphs in Henry Ford's typewritten and signed apology for attacks made on the Jewish race in his periodical, The Dearborn Independent, which express his regret and pledge him to friendship and support of the Jewish people in future. Inset is Ford's latest portrait.

Rounds of receptions are on for Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, San Francisco to Honolulu fliers. Picture shows Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco, greeting the aviators on their arrival there.

HOT? TAKE A LOOK HERE AND COOL OFF

For the benefit of the sweltering citizenry we reproduce here a few portraits of people who don't mind the heat a bit. There is, for example, the group of kids in the upper left corner, who are glad it's hot because they have so much fun getting cooled off; and certainly the polar bear in the upper right corner isn't exercised as long as the supply of ice holds out. On the other hand, summer means watermelon for Master Jefferson Lee Davis Florian Slappey in the lower left, so he should worry; and a useful hint for perspiring golfers is supplied by Miss Sunny Sullivan of Chicago and her caddy, Harry Wollert.

Weds Hero

Katherine Radcliffe, daughter of a millionaire Welsh ship owner, is now Mrs. L. W. Curtin, wife of the naval flier. The marriage was hastened because the lieutenant plans to fly to France with Rene Fonck in a short time. Miss Radcliffe broke her engagement with an army lieutenant several years ago to elope with George Wise, a Washington dairyman, but her father had the marriage annulled.

SHE'S ENGAGED

Lady Mary Thynne, the youngest daughter of the Marquis of Bath, and one of the most discussed beauties of London society, is engaged to Lord Nunburnholme, according to an official announcement. Lady Mary is 24, and her prospective bridegroom one year younger. She was one of the bridesmaids attending Princess Mary.

Promoted Flight

James D. Dole, Hawaiian pineapple king, offers $25,000 to the first and $10,000 to the second aviator to fly from the Pacific Coast to Honolulu.

May Be Judge

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, is among the three persons being considered for appointment as new Federal Judge for California. If appointed she will be the first woman to hold such a post.

$24,000 Loser

Crooks stole baggage checks from Mrs. Tito Schipa, wife of the famous opera tenor, and looted her luggage in Chicago of $24,000 in gems. Mrs. Schipa, in reporting the robbery, said she was wearing $100,000 in jewelry at the time.

FASHIONABLE LONDON BRIDE

One of the outstanding events of the "little season" in London was the marriage of the beautiful Joan Yarde-Buller, daughter of Baron and Lady Churston, who was wedded to Noel Guinness, scion of a wealthy Irish family, at St. Margaret's church, while members of the British royal family looked on.

Reserves Take Slugfest From Lewisburg Nine

VISITORS THREATEN IN SIXTH BUT LOCALS RETRIEVE VICTORY

Payton Makes Balloon Ascension And Durnbaugh Retires Side—Reserves Fatten Batting Average With 23 Hits.

Although the visitors staged a great sixth inning rally during which they scored nine runs, the Reserves outclutched the Lewisburg, O. White Stars and won 16 to 11 in a wild game that took two hours and twenty minutes to complete Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

The party opened as a tame affair but wound up in a blaze of hits which blasted two Reserve pitchers from the hill and pounded Lewisburg's two, and only two, hurlers to and fro until the hired help decided to call it a day.

Neither pitcher who saw service for Lewisburg was effective against the fury of the Reserve attack which centered in every inning but the fifth.

The visitors appeared to be in a dormant mood throughout the first five innings but the party started getting rough when Russ Payton weakened in the sixth.

Payton did a real Lindbergh in this wild stanza and Cyphers was rushed in as a relief pitcher. He was no relief and Durnbaugh had to be finally called in from center field to retire the side. Seven hits, a walk, an error or so and what not were crowded into the wild jamboree and the round was a nightmare if there ever was one. The first nine Lewisburg players coming to bat in this round all scored without a man being retired. Reserves pounded out twenty-three hits off the combined offerings of K. Pierce and Bud Barnhisser, who appeared to alternate almost every inning in the box. Lewisburg clubbed local pitchers for thirteen blows.

Reserves lost little time in getting their scoring operations under way, registering two runs on four hits in the first inning. Three hits produced another marker in the second and three more brought across two tallies in the third. Two singles and an error gave Lewisburg one in the third.

After Kiefer and Durnbaugh had doubled in the fourth, Pierce called it an afternoon and Barnhisser took up the pitching burden. Cyphers and Crowl greeted him with singles and then the side was retired with three more counters across the plate.

The fifth inning, for a wonder, passed scoreless for both sides although the visitors managed to fill the bases.

In the crash came unexpectedly in the sixth and the Reserve seven-run lead was smashed to smithereens. Rogers opened with a single, Pierce singled, and B. Barnhisser poked out a long double that scored both runners. Bunker blazed out a hit sending Barnhisser to third. On the double steal, Crowl dropped Weller's peg to second and Barnhisser scored.

Bunker went to third on a wild pitch. Rice dribbled to third and on the throw to catch Bunker at home, the ball hit him en route and another run scored. Exit Payton. Enter Cyphers. Holman singled. So did Bud Barnhisser, sending Holman to third.

Stocksager rolled to Rader who threw to second to force Barnhisser but Crowl neglected to touch the bag after taking the throw. Hunt cleared the bases with a triple and Cyphers went out. Durnbaugh came into the box and immediately unloosed a wild heave that permitted Hunt to score. He then walked Rogers, up for the second time, but the next three batters were easy outs.

Durnbaugh then gave a marvelous pitching exhibition striking out three straight batters in the seventh and the first two in the eighth before Rogers tripled and Pierce singled for Lewisburg's final run of the game. Durnbaugh gets credit for the win.

In the face of all this, the Reserves had heart enough to give chase and finally overhaul Lewisburg. Two errors, two singles and a sacrifice fly combined to manufacture one run in the sixth. With Pierce back in the box in the seventh, Reserves tallied four times with the aid of two hits and a couple of errors. Barnhisser then returned to the mound and was pasted for four hits and three added runs in the eighth.

All Reserve players hit well. Cyphers came out of his slump to make four hits, while Johnson, Kiefer, Crowl and Payton each obtained three. Scott and Durnbaugh helped out with two apiece. Rogers made three hits for the opposition including a double and triple. Crowl appeared to be a find.

The game was played under unbelievable weather conditions for the diamond was in bad shape from rain. The contest was also marred by almost constant umpire baiting, fans and players alike taking exception to most of Brannigan's decisions.

One in particular occurred when Crowl had singled with one down. The Reserve player strolled back along the base to pick up his cap before another ball was pitched without touching the bag again or stepping on the playing field. The Lewisburg pitcher threw to first and the first baseman touched Crowl. Umpire Brannigan called the runner out and then reversed the decision.

Reserves will have plenty of opposition Sunday here when the Richmond, Ind. nine appears in Xenia. Richmond will have a man in the box that is a pitcher in name as well as in fact. His name is P. S. Pitcher, hailing from Boston, Mass. Richmond possesses one of the strongest clubs in that state. Hod Eller, Cincinnati star hurler eight years ago, now a policeman at Terre Haute, Ind., played with Richmond this season.

ELECTION BOARD IS PREPARING TO HAVE BALLOTS PRINTED

Board of Elections, at a recent meeting, approved the petitions filed by eight candidates for City Commission, subject to the August 9 primary.

The board also ordered that bids be advertised for ballots and supplies for the primary. As 2,800 citizens voted at the last gubernatorial election, about 25 per cent in excess of this number will be needed, and must be printed, to be prepared against a deficiency.

Voters are being warned by the board to show their preference for only two candidates in marking ballots at the primary. If votes are cast for more than two of the eight candidates, these ballots will be lost.

Only two vacancies occur, and four of the eight candidates will be eliminated at the primary. The four receiving the highest number of votes become eligible for the regular November election.

Voters should also vote for but two of these four candidates at the November election. At the final election, the two candidates obtaining the greatest number of votes will be elected commissioners.

5c DOES IT!

It Buys a Good Cigar Any Place, Any Time, if You Know the Password

"But will it?" you say, thinking of the typical five-center that claims to be worth more. Can't blame you for asking.

At the same time, there is a fine, fragrant cigar on the market today at just five cents. There is a smoke to be bought for a nickel now that used to cost more years ago. That sold big for thirty years. That sells better than ever today.

The name is Havana Ribbon. Will you forget the old-time five-center, the old-time ideas of cigar prices and buy just one Havana Ribbon on quality alone? If you will, you are going to get the smoke surprise of your life. You're going to buy mellowness, mildness, rich ripe tobacco—satisfaction!

Don't be afraid of Havana Ribbon. We can offer quality at the price because we make the cigar in the millions. If you'll only try it, you'll forget the price.

CHURCH MEETING TO HEAR INDIA NATIVE

Unusual interest is being centered in the appearance of Mrs. Mary Samuels, native of India, who is to speak at a Presbyterian meeting of the United Presbyterian Churches of the Xenia area, at the Second Church Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuels came to the United States this spring as the guest of the Women's Missionary Societies and has created widespread interest through the messages she has given at the General Assembly at Washington, D. C. in May and also at the national convention of the Women's General Missionary Society at Pittsburgh, Kansas, where she appeared each day on the program.

From Xenia she will go to New Concord, O., to address the Muskingum Bible Conference. She speaks perfect English and her messages are of a deeply inspirational order. It is said. A hearty invitation is extended by the local committee to the entire community, men and women, boys and girls to hear Mrs. Samuels at 3 o'clock. At 12:30 p. m. the women of the Presbyterian will enjoy a "covered dish" picnic dinner at the Second Church.

QUOIT CLUB FACES RIVERDALE CLUB

The match will start at 8 o'clock and all Xenia players are requested to be present without fail.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Here's a new one you will like Fluffy-Tail! You'll know by sight. When Betty Ann first heard that a big, red bushy-tailed squirrel had been caught in the trap that Bill had set up in Marty's yard, she could hardly believe her ears. Of course, she knew lots of people who had pet squirrels living in their trees that would come and eat nuts from their hands but she had never been able to coax one into her yard, even though she scattered nuts for them. "Maybe the trees weren't large enough," she had decided.

But now she would have a pet squirrel, too, or at least a part of one because it really belonged to the Ritzie club and she was just one of the six club members. Oh, well, a sixth of a squirrel was better than none at all! And she knew the boys well enough to know that they had most of their fun in catching it and that it would be up to Patsy and her to feed it and look after it.

"Oh, it is just too good to be true," she cried as she petted the tree. "Make a tree-house," he answered, still gazing at the branches.

"A tree-house!" asked his puzzled playmates. "Yes, a tree-house for Fluffy-Tail," explained Marty. "She never would be really happy unless she could scamper up and down a tree and bury her nuts in the ground at the bottom."

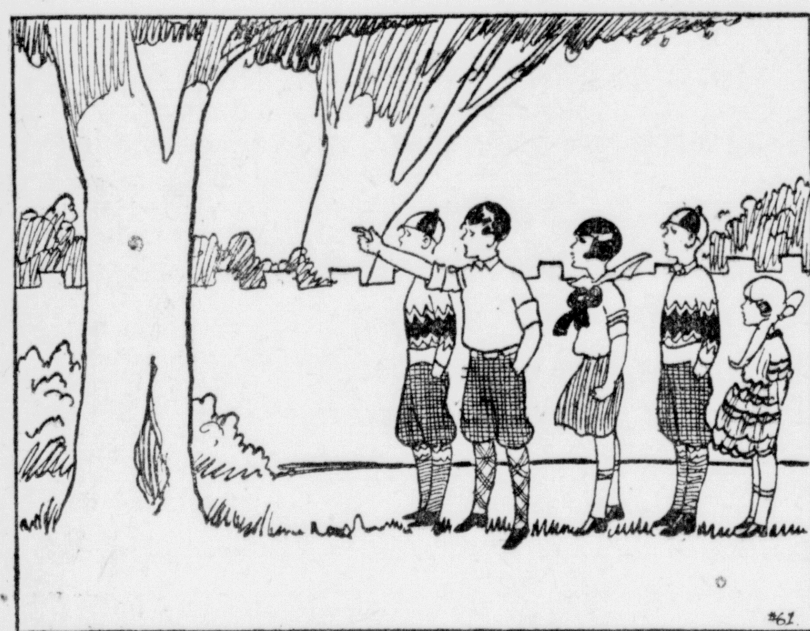

"That would be wonderful!" exclaimed Patsy. "Oh, please try hard to do it, Marty. We'll all help."

"I'll make you some chocolate fudge if you do," promised Betty Ann.

"I saw a tree house at a zoo once," said Tag. "I've got the idea enough that I think I can help."

With so much encouragement and offered assistance, Marty felt sure that he ought to be able to make some kind of a home for Fluffy-Tail though it might not be one of which his manual training teacher at school would approve.

Of course, the first thing was to find the right tree. It must be soft, red fur of Fluffy-Tail as they decided to call the squirrel. Funny how tame it was. It must have been used to having people feed it nuts.

"What kind of a pen are you going to build for it?" asked Patsy. Its present home was a big store box covered with wire netting. They had branches and leaves and soft grass over the bottom of the box but of course that was only a temporary home. It would have to have more freedom than a big box or it would get sick and die.

Marty, who was starting up into a nearby tree, didn't hear Patsy's question or at least didn't answer it if he did and the twins, who had always kept their rabbits in the kind of a pen that the squirrel was now living in, didn't have any suggestions to make.

"I believe I can do it!" said Marty, suddenly.

"Do what?" asked the rest of the Ritzies who had been wondering what he had been staring at up in large enough to make a nice shade and have big roots that the squirrel could burrow under but it must be young enough so that the branches would be near the ground. Otherwise, the Ritzies would never be able to build the house around them.

There wasn't a tree in the Collins' yard that seemed to fill the bill but when just the kind of a tree was found in Betty Ann's yard, this Ritzie was as happy as she could be.

There was a big decayed hollow in the tree that would make a dandy nest for Fluffy-Tail and the branches were all knotted and rough. Just the kind that a squirrel would love to climb about on!

Marty got busy with his measuring rule and from the business-like way in which he went at things it looked as if Fluffy-Tail wouldn't have to stay long in the wire-covered box.

Read about the progress of the tree-house in tomorrow's story.

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE

By Marjorie K. Rawlings

SPRING IS A HOUSEWIFE

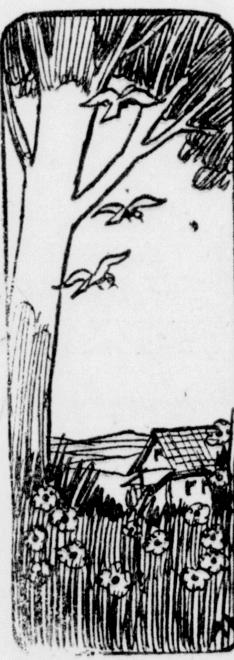

SPRING is a housewife, full of vim To clean the dusty world. Winter? She has no use for him, About his hearth-fire curled!

She tweeks him by his reddened nose And sings her battle-song. She makes him pack his tattered clothes And move his bones along.

She blows out smoke he left behind, His ashes, grime and soot. She has Spring cleaning on her mind, And housework is a-foot.

Then when his tracks are cleared away She brings out song and sun, Decks out the world with posies gay— Her housewife's job is done!

VACATION BOOKS LIBRARY FEATURE

Special privileges, permitting vacationists to enjoy books from the Greene County District Library during their stay away, are pointed out by Miss Mildred W. Sandoe, district librarian.

Many readers of library books leave the city for long or short periods each summer, says Sandoe, many going to places where books are hard to obtain, although they would be much appreciated if available.

"If you are going to such a place, don't forget that the vacation privilege now in force at the library permits library borrowers to take along six books for a period of four weeks," Miss Sandoe says. "Of course, these books must not be the seven-day loan. Any others may be drawn in this way."

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. "Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives," "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

NEW FAIRGROUND GRANDSTAND IS FINISHED; BIG CONTRIBUTION TO FACILITIES OF FAIR

NEW FAIR GRANDSTAND

The new grandstand at the Xenia Fairgrounds, capable of seating 1,600 people, has been completed.

Representing an investment of $12,500, the stand is modeled after the Montgomery County grandstand and modern in every detail.

The structure is forty-eight feet deep and 168 feet long and constructed of cement, steel and wood with an asbestos, fireproof shingle roof.

The seating capacity is double that of the old stand. The seats are of bench construction having comfortable backs, an original design of Chalmers Murphy, of the Greene County Lumber Co., who is also credited with the plans for the structure.

The stand is removed thirty feet from the race track and has an elevation of six feet from the ground. The vacant space immediately in front of the stand has been graded and covered with fine, crushed stone, permitting approximately 1,000 more people to witness the racing without obscuring the view of grandstand patrons. The stand is painted white.

Besides the standing room in front of the structure, sufficient room is provided in the rear of the stand to accommodate at least 200 more people.

The new grandstand has been under construction for six weeks since the foundation was built the middle of May. Jeffries and Fudge, local contracting firm, built the stand.

The project is complete with the exception of the erection of fences at each end. The entrance will be at the north end. The office of Secretary J. Robert Bryson has also been transferred from the fairground gate to underneath the stand to better accommodate horsemen. The office has been provided with a ticket window.

The Greene County Agricultural Society announces the price of admission to the stand will remain the same, twenty-five cents.

The building committee, responsible for the stand, consisted of C. M. Austin, Grant Miller, B. U. Bell, N. N. Hunter, W. C. Smith, and F. E. Turnbull.

The fair board intends to make use of space beneath the stand, which will probably be given over to concessions. Thirteen bench lengths are available for this purpose.

FAIRFIELD MAN IS HELD AFTER ATTACK

Charged with loitering in connection with an alleged attack on an eight-year-old girl on Springfield St. in Dayton, Thursday, Robert W. Morris, 29, Wright Field, was held under $500 bond for a hearing Wednesday, when arraigned in the Dayton Police Court Friday.

After it is charged, he attacked the girl, Morris was pursued by bystanders, including men and boys, but stopped in front of a policeman's home and drew a pocket knife to defend himself. The officer stepped out of the house on hearing the disturbance and arrested him, after listening to the accusations of the crowd.

The girl had meanwhile fled and could not be found. In the absence of her testimony, Morris was not charged with a more serious offense.

DILAPIDATED AUTOS AND MEN

The so-called "gasoline gypsies," people who are wandering around the country in dilapidated automobiles and depending to a large extent on the generosity of charitable people, are causing annoyance in various parts of the country.

When one can buy an ancient car for a small amount of money that may with some tinkering run a good many miles, there is a chance for folks with a wandering nature to get around a good deal with it.

These folks must be hopeful and good natured people who always think there is something better in the next town. They hear that there is work and prosperity in a certain city, and they think if they could only get there, they would find jobs and money. But when they get there, they usually find conditions about the same as they were in the last place. They are no doubt able to obtain many gifts of clothing and supplies.

If such families have children, the chances of these youngsters for education and settled habits of industry must be poor.

Apparently a good many men who 25 years ago would have been ordinary tramps, begging their way from door to door, have developed this modern method of roving, which saves much hard riding on freight cars. There are many fellows who will work when they need money, but are too restless to hold one job long. Charitable people should be cautious about contributing to their hard luck tales. What these people need is to settle down in one place and make good at some useful job. The old saying is true that a rolling stone gathers no moss.

ANOTHER RESULT OF GENIUS

That Americans more and more are becoming an efficient people, is shown by a study of the manufactures census figures of the Department of Commerce.

The physical volume of manufactures produced per person increased nearly 50 percent from 1899 to 1925, reflecting a growth of 180 percent in quantity of production and of less than 90 percent in number of persons engaged.

Expansion in output per person has been particularly large during recent years, amounting to 10 percent in the two years from 1923 to 1925, and to 40 percent in the six years from 1919 to 1925.

Growth in output per person may be attributed to increasing utilization of machinery and electric power, introduction of various sorts of labor-saving devices and methods, growth of mass production of standardized articles, elimination of waste, planning of production in relation to general business conditions, and other economies resulting from improvements in methods and management.

The Way of the World

THE VICAR SAYS MUCH

A tax on lip sticks—that's what the vicar of an English church wants.

Here in America we do not feel very badly about the many millions a year women spend on rouge, powder, lip sticks and the like. We in America love beauty and we are for everything that enhances it—even though it comes high.

Even taxes aren't so bad if you have something bright to show for your taxes.

WATCH ITALY

The Italian cabinet, thinking rents too high, casually approves a decree forbidding increases. Mussolini seems to have within reach all sorts of quick and handy ways of getting results.

The Italian experiment, which is not democracy, is worth watching.

"BUILDING AIRWAYS"

Along with our enthusiasm for more and better national highways we now begin to talk new national airways. Few realize what is being done in the matter of airways. Today the government is establishing and lighting national airways with 200,000,000 candle power revolving searchlights every ten miles. Boundary lighted landing fields, averaging 40 acres in extent and about 30 miles apart, are included in government plans.

Don't get the idea Uncle Sam is slow.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

Everybody asks the question: "How's business?" Surveys show business is better so far in 1927 than the forecasts promised. Freight carriage of the railroads has been at new high levels. On the average, wages are better today than ever before. The well-being of the country, however, is not evenly distributed. Business is much better in some places than others. On the whole we are having a good year. Prosperity is in the saddle and big business men, profiting by mistakes of the past, have learned some things about keeping it there.

AS TO SIMPLICITY

A letter from Dr. Grenfell, who is giving his life to helping folks in far off Labrador, is interesting. He says: "I don't think people in the United States quite realize how primitive we are in the North. The odd thing is that simplicity and honesty and unselfishness go together. As I go around the world I seem to notice that the advent of modern civilization seems to displace them."

Are we paying too high a price for this civilization of ours?

ANYWAY, WE NEED THE HEART

A famous German physician advances the theory that the heart is not the prime motive power for life. He says the cells of the body, absorbing and eliminating fluids, are the chief motive power in forcing the blood through the system. Well, he may be right, but we still need the heart for purposes of romance.

WHERE THE HEALTHY SURVIVE

Dr. Crile, famous Ohio surgeon, has been hunting lions in Africa. He is impressed with the health of the animals he found. They furnish a perfect example of the survival of the fittest. They live in a land where there is nothing to interfere with the natural processes of evolution.

CIVILIZATION MAKES US WEAK

The lion does well because nobody protects the weak ones. If they are weak or sick they die. The strong ones live and have strong offspring. Among us humans we take care of the weak. We are civilized. We must keep alive the unfit because it is what we call a moral thing to do. Thus we interfere with the natural process of evolution.

After all, there's nothing to do about it. We must be kind.

Did you READ it?

Here are six questions dealing with news events of the past few days which have been reported in The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican. Can you answer them accurately? If you can, you may claim credit as a really intelligent reader; but if you fail, that means you merely skim the news, as so many people do. Answers on Classified Page.

1. Give the names of the two aviators who started from San Francisco for Hawaii after Maitland and Hegeberger, and the name of their ship.
2. A new clue to the fate of Nungesser and Gail, the French transatlantic fliers, was recently reported. What was the report, and where did it come from?
3. Under the recent agreement between the heads of the navy and interior departments, what government agency now controls leases of navy oil reserves?
4. What notable collection of foreign sportsmen recently arrived in the United States? For what purpose?
5. What young athlete recently won a 28 mile marathon swim on Lake George, N. Y.?
6. What is the name of the Michigan school teacher who has embarked on a San Francisco-Hawaii flight? Who is her companion?

Many Minds SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS OF THE DAY

"At least five years must elapse before we can carry passengers across the ocean, and then the cost of a single flight will be so prohibitive—$3,000—that only the wealthy will be able to afford it."—Clarence Chamberlin.

"The purpose of the church is to bring men back to God. When I see run runners and those who patronize them who are still more criminal, I wonder whether God will not judge me more severely because of the advantages I have had when many of these other men have had no praying mothers, no Godly fathers and never had any personal teaching about God. Who is to blame for the wildness of our young people? Who brought them up? Who trained them? You folks who find fault with them."—The Rev. C. W. Gordon, (Ralph Connor).

"Within the next fifteen or twenty years there will be a world war which will not be localized in any sense of the word. Every country will take part in it and the combatants will include not only the manhood, but the women and children of every nation. Younger women probably will take an even more active part in the war of the future. The nation in arms will comprise not only every available man, but every woman and child, since all will have allotted to them some definite task. Battles will be fought not only by land and sea, but in the air, where planes will fight not singly or in squadrons, but in series masses."—Marshal Foch.

FOR CONTENTED COWS

CHICAGO—A. D. Lasker, former head of the United States shipping board and wealthy advertising executive, has started to tear up his private golf course in Lake Forest, explaining that it has "too many natural hazards." Someone mixed the seed bags last spring and sowed the course to alfalfa, clover, spike grass and green peas instead of the sleek crop sprouts desired.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, July 18.—That free and extemporary amusement which is to be had all over New York is not absent in the most dignified of streets, Park Avenue.

Driving down that thoroughfare the other afternoon I was halted by the traffic lights at Sixty-seventh street. There a young woman was trying to cross in her car. She let out her clutch; the car jerked forward, and the engine died. She started the motor; it roared and the car careened backward. It stopped, bumped crazily forward as though it were drunk, and finally the lady at the wheel had the car in hand, and got across. But not until taxi cab drivers had passed remarks, such as: "Them women drivers ought not to be allowed to drive a car."

At Seventy-fourth street three young men were fooling with a bottle of milk, trying to open it. One jabbed a knife into the pasteboard stopper, while the others bent their heads and watched the operation. The milk bottle acted as milk bottles are in the habit of acting when opened by inexperienced hands. The milk sprayed out with a great explosion, covering the youths with white liquid. The bystander who seemed to enjoy their plight the most was an elderly gentleman with a beard, nattily dressed in a cutaway coat, striped trousers and top hat. He nearly doubled up with laughter. In fact, he laughed so hard he nearly got run over by a truck.

No funny-paper story could be more improbable than the things that happen every morning at most suburban railroad stations near New York. At these stations in the morning there is always a line of cars waiting to discharge husbands who are on the way to town. Invariably each car contains one husband and one wife. The husband is drinking. He stops the car at the station platform, he kisses his wife, and she slides over into the driver's seat. When he has taken about ten steps the little woman usually calls him back to ask him for money. He digs into his pocket, hands her a bill, and she drives off.

In the evening the process is reversed. The wife drives to the station and parks the car. Husband's train comes it, and husband gets out. When he reaches the car he leans over and kisses the wife. She slides over from the driver's seat and he takes the wheel and drives off.

Certainly there is nothing wrong in this. And personally I approve of the custom. It is a routine custom into which my wife and I are habituated like other commuters. But just for variety's sake, I should like to see one of these wives (not mine) when her husband bends over to give her the evening kiss, give him a good sock on the nose.

One of the biggest successes of the recent bills at the New York motion picture houses has been a news reel depicting the president at his birthday party in the Black Hills. A mounted troupe of Boy Scouts, it seems, presented him with a 10-gallon hat, a pair of ornate high-heeled boots, spurs, and chaps, neckerchief and colored shirt.

When the picture of Mr. Coolidge was thrown on the screen in that outfit the audience broke into gales of laughter. Puzzled by this lack of reverence, I made inquiry at several theaters where the news reel was shown, and discovered that the spectators never failed to react in precisely that way.

According to an interview with Lillian Gish in a magazine, Miss Mabel Normand "must be pursued by an evil genius. She hasn't an unkind thought in her head. It just happens that she is always around when the gun goes off."

The Theatre

Xenians who are fortunate enough to spend their vacation in the east, and who will have an opportunity to take in some of the New York summer shows, (which, by the way, are few and far between) are advised by all reviewers to see "Hit the Deck," the romping musical show, translated into Vincent Youmans's blithe score from David Belasco's production of "Shore Leave."

It is at the Belasco Theater, just as Frances Starr's romance was unfolded in years gone. It is a fresh buoyant tale of a girl from a battleship who gets engaged to a little girl in a coffee-house in the most casual way, wanders off forgetfully and then comes back to find the girl of his coffee and sinkers is the girl of his dreams.

Gilbert has long been known as one of the most temperamental actors of the silver screen.

Louise Groody is a stimulating dancer in "Hit the Deck," and of course you have heard one of the headline songs from the show, "Sometimes I'm Happy," in which Miss Groody harmonizes with Charles King, James Rennie took the part of the girl played by King in the new version of the piece. Others of the more seasoned musical shows from preceding months are still in stock to be highly recommended. Judicious expenditure would mean seeing Ziegfeld's "Rio Rita," "Oh, Kay," Helen Ford in "Peggy Ann," "The Desert Song," and "Honeymoon Lane."

John Gilbert has announced that he may retire from film work, for "five, ten or fifteen years" or that he may form his own company and "have pictures to suit himself." Gilbert said that he was not on speaking terms with his present employers and named dissatisfaction over the stories supplied him as the main cause for the break.

Florence Reed, star of the "Shanghai Gesture" recovering in Los Angeles from a throat operation, suffered a relapse Wednesday when news of the death of her mother, Mrs. Roland Reed, in New York, was given her. Miss Reed is still in Hollywood Hospital.

Fatty Arbuckle scored a personal hit in the revival of the farce-comedy, "Baby-Mine" but the piece was too old-fashioned to appeal to this modern day. Its Broadway run lasted a week.

YOUR EXPENSES FOR KEEPING CLEAN

Some hot day I'm going to lie in a hammock or porch swing and try to figure out what proportion of one's income must be spent just in trying to keep clean.

The most costly room in the average home is the bathroom. A big part of our taxes goes for sewers and clean streets.

No equally small surface in the world is the subject of so much expense for scrubbing and polishing as the teeth. Costs of advertising tooth-cleaning preparations run into millions of dollars each year.

The same thing is true of soap. Laundry bills are an important item in every household.

In short, life is a constant struggle against the forces of dirt.

True, in many respects our fight is carried on with noteworthy stupidity and inefficiency.

Much of our clothing is unwashable—because of the need of wearing articles of more expensive design and material than washable goods, to meet demands of fashion.

We could wear clothing as washable as a heavy flannel shirt, but this would not be stylish.

If we were scientific we should wear nothing longer than a few days without associating it with soap and water.

Even our shoes might be of cheap material and often replaced; thus they would always be newer and cleaner than shoes that have been worn for months.

However, while we might be more cleanly than we are, a vast industrial army is constantly at work trying to keep ahead of dirt, at a daily cost of millions of dollars.

With the spread of industrial centers this, of course, becomes greater each year, for such places mean soot, grime, congestion and perspiration.

But while it is costly, cleanliness is worth the price.

Cleanliness is civilization. It is decency. I'm even half inclined to coin a phrase and say that cleanliness is next to godliness.

A big store recently had various employees, who knew one another, to rate themselves and other members of their group as to certain character traits.

The test showed that we humans are inclined to underestimate our Carefulness, Industry and Orderliness.

But we overestimate our Punctuality, Enthusiasm, Patience and Thrift.

CONSTIPATION

C. wants to know if it is true that one's bowels can be lined with hardened refuse matter and still allow a good bowel movement each day through the center?

And will colonic irrigations be good for this?

No, it is not true. C. that one could have a good bowel movement each day and have this happen. A good bowel movement implies that it is good-sized and firm; if the stools are constantly stringy and watery and there are profound symptoms of auto-intoxication, we might consider the possibility of retained refuse. Then colonic irrigations no doubt would be good (in the hands of a competent nurse under the direction of a physician). But the whole program of hygiene would also have to be carried out, including an examination by a competent physician and an X-ray. Colonic irrigations are greatly overdone, I believe.

It is the consensus of opinion of most physicians that if there is a good bowel movement once a day it will clean out the tract so there is no danger of any absorption. Some believe that the bowels should move after each meal.

Aside from diseases of the intestinal tract, there are many causes which are the following:

1. Insufficient quantity of solid food, or too much of the highly concentrated foods which are almost completely absorbed, leaving too little bulk to excite the normal peristalsis (the wormlike movement by which the alimentary canal propels its contents).

2. Too much food: Overeating. The accumulation of waste matter may be greater than the muscle power to propel. Obesity.

3. Insufficient fluids, especially water.

4. Irregularity in diet, and imperfect mastication.

5. Enfeebled intestinal muscles due to lack of exercise and too little oxygen, resulting in sluggish circulation and a tendency to diminish general functional activity.

6. The failure to take a regular time for evacuation of the bowels.

7. Drugs, including physics.

8. Worry over your condition.

TREATMENT.—1. Stop worrying about your constipation (after you take measures to correct it). Tranquility and lack of thinking too much about any of your functions will permit them to work better.

2. Don't over or under eat, and have a balanced diet; for most types of constipation it should contain considerable roughage. Drink sufficient water. Eat the whole grain cereals and breads and more laxative foods, including many vegetables and fruits.

3. Regular time for evacuation. Food is the best stimulus to the movement of the intestinal tract; therefore, plan for this important time after a meal.

4. Exercise, especially brisk walking, and the abdominal exercises. (If you haven't the article "Abdominal Wall," better send for it. Enclose only a self-addressed stamped envelope with request.)

5. No drugs (or colonic irrigations) unless advised by your physician.

How to Achieve Beauty

MME. HELENA RUBENSTEIN

SUMMER COSMETICS SHOULD REFLECT THE COLOR SCHEME OF YOUR WARDROBE

Summer is Nature's season of color and we humans, like chameleons, should reflect it. With the advent of the warm days there is nothing more refreshing than frocks of cool crisp linens, organdies, dimities and voiles.

And to don one is as cooling and invigorating as drinking a cool glass of water or eating an ice cold piece of water melon.

These are the things which help give resistance against the sultriness of summer's heat.

But we owe to the woman who gives thought and care to the choice of dainty clothes but neglects the texture and coloring of her skin. For nothing shows up an ill-cared for skin more glaringly than a dainty filmy frock. And by the same token there is nothing so lovely as a dainty woman in a dainty frock, especially if her complexion, hands and arms are smooth, fresh and clean.

However, it is not enough to just care for your skin and choose a pretty frock. The consideration of color should enter into the selection. The shade of a dress should blend with the coloring of the hair and skin and the skin must take on a tone that enhances the shade of the frock.

In other words, your summer powders, rouges and lipsticks should not only be selected with the thought of making the most of the coloring of your hair and eyes but must also harmonize with your frocks.

It is therefore, important that you know the sort of make-up that is most flattering in combination with the new colors which are most becoming to your particular type.

The newest effects in smart make-up for daytime calls for little rouge. A powder should be used that exactly blends with the tone of the skin and that doesn't appear apparent. Or a slightly darker powder may be used to give a sunburned effect if this is becoming to you.

However, when it comes to the use of the lipstick, one can afford to be frankly artificial as it is smart just now to make the mouth the one spot on which attention is focused.

But as I said before, rules are general, and should be modified as the fundamental color scheme of your costume is changed.

DR. A. M. PATTERSON COLLABORATES ON NEW CHEMICAL BOOK

"A Guide to the Literature of Chemistry" is the title of the book to be issued soon by John Wiley and Sons, Inc., New York and written by Dr. Austin M. Patterson, N. King St., in collaboration with E. J. Crane, editor of "Chemical Abstracts" Ohio State University.

Proofs of the book are now being finished and the work is expected to be released by the publishers early in August. The work treats of all different phases of chemistry, and gives full information of periodicals and other literature devoted to chemistry. It is drawn from all sources of information on chemistry, including libraries and tells how to conduct chemical researches.

It has eight appendices, giving the titles, addresses and prices of chemistry works, with a large list of periodicals and a selected list of 1,500 chemistry books. It also includes a list of chemical libraries, dealers and publishers. Dr. Patterson and Mr. Crane have been assisted in compiling the book by about 175 chemists, many of whom are renowned throughout the world. The collaborators have been working on the book five years, giving it extensive study the past year. Both are particularly fitted for the work, having had editorial experience in chemistry heretofore. Dr. Patterson was formerly editor of "Chemical Abstracts" and Mr. Crane worked with him several years and later succeeded him.

The book is said to be especially useful to both students and chemists of every degree.

ANTIOCH STUDENT IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Ralph Geisler, 22, Dayton, student at Antioch College, died in Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Monday morning at 8:20, from injuries received when he was struck by a traction car two miles north of Troy, on the Dixie Highway, Friday evening.

Ralph Geisler, 22, student at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, is in a critical condition in Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, from injuries received when he was struck by a traction car, north of Troy, Friday night at 9 o'clock.

He is suffering from a broken back, fractured skull, ruptured internal organs, broken leg and numerous other injuries. Geisler is said to have been driving north on the Dixie Highway and experienced motor trouble at Lytle, two miles north of Troy. He drove to the side of the road, between the highway and the traction line. Just as he lifted the hood of his auto, he was struck by a traction car, north bound. The front door of the automobile was torn away by the interurban car.

Geisler was rushed to a Troy Hospital and later taken to Dayton. He is the son of Mrs. Emma S. Geisler, 833 Manhattan Ave., Dayton.

BIGAMIST APT POT WASHER
AUBURN, N. Y.—A veteran of three marriages, Raymond Eugene Losey of Endicott, is making an "apt" pot washer at Auburn State Prison where he is serving a one to three year term for bigamy.

Pot washing is not a new chore for Losey, who was sent here from Corning by County Judge Edwin S. Brown, for he has often helped out one of his three wives in various times with the kitchen work.

But in "them days" Losey was at liberty to refuse to aid the wife whenever the inclination was lacking, but not so "these days," for he is being closely watched by his guards.

For a whole month he will wash the pots and scrub floors at the prison, and if he behaves himself will be given a post in the prison factory or office.

Raymond Shank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shank, New Jasper, fell from a telephone pole, Sunday, when the pole broke and received a fracture of his left arm, near the wrist, and severe bruises.

MAKING MODERN MENUS
Mrs. Jones—"I'm always so pleased when I run across new recipes for cooking vegetables."
Mrs. Brown—"I know, they're so good for one, but it is tiresome always fixing them the same way."
BEEF JELLY
Two tablespoons gelatine.
Half cup cold water.
Half cup vinegar.
Two cups boiling water.
One and a half teaspoons salt.
Quarter cup sugar.
One cup minced beets.
One minced onion.
Soak the gelatine in the cold water and the vinegar. Add the boiling water, preferably the water in which the beets were cooked, sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved. Stand in cold water, and when the mixture begins to thicken add the beets and onions and place in the ice box to set. Unmold on lettuce or cabbage leaves.

ESCALLOPED LIMA BEANS
Soak two cups of lima beans over night. Discard the water in which they were soaked, wash them again and put on to boil. Cook until tender, drain well and add salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Place in a casserole, cover the beans with sweet cream or with whole milk and bits of butter, sprinkle the top with dried bread crumbs, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven (325 F.) for one hour, removing the cover the last fifteen minutes.

As a variation one cup of finely diced salt pork may be used with the milk in place of the butter. This gives an especially good flavor.

MUSIC AND CHURCH PROGRAM FEATURE CHAUTAUQUA WEEK END

Ellsworth Gilbert's Gypsy Revue, a group of talented vocalists, offering a costumed production featuring songs of the vagabonds, proved one of the outstanding attractions of the week's program at the Redpath Chautauqua Saturday night.

This exceptional group was trained by Mr. Gilbert, Kansas City, who is himself a musician of prominence and trains all groups of singers who appear on Redpath Chautauqua circuits throughout the country.

The stage setting in the first part of the program showed the gypsies in camp enjoying an informal season of song. Unusual lighting effects were produced and a touch of spectacular was added to the program in the final part when the vocalists introduced a contest between the classic and jazz music, with the audience deciding as to which it thought the most popular by the amount of applause given.

Modern music and old favorite opera selections were skillfully mingled throughout the program and close listening brought out many exquisite details. The singers must be heard to be appreciated.

During the intermission, officers of the newly-organized Juniata, of the Chautauqua were introduced, and the mayor of the town was sworn in by John W. Prush, mayor of Xenia, who told of the heavy responsibilities such an office carries. He commended the fact that the youngsters had recorded a 100 per cent vote in electing their officers, and advised Xenians to follow this example at the August primary.

The Chautauqua tent was filled to capacity for the Sunday afternoon and evening programs.

In the afternoon B. P. Hivale, native of British India, introduced by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, spoke on missionary life in India and of the progress being made. Mr. Hivale is a Congregational minister and the son of a Congregational minister, and told of his experiences as a boy with his father.

The evening union church program was in charge of the Xenia Ministerial Association. Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M.

E. Church, was in charge of the devotional period, the Rev. H. B. McElree, led in prayer, and the Rev. J. P. Lytle read the scripture lesson.

Four special song numbers were also given arranged by the music committee composed of Mrs. W. H. McGervey, Mrs. W. J. Cherry and Miss Martha Anderson. Vocal selections were given by Miss Henryetta Logan, Mrs. James Wilson, Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, Cedarville, and a quartet from the First U. P. Church. Miss Juanita Rankin accompanied at the piano.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. Lewis Earle Lee, Cincinnati, executive secretary of the Hamilton County Sunday School Council of Religious Education, was introduced by the Rev. Mr. Tilford.

Dr. Lee spoke on the subject, "Childhood's Opportunities in Religious Education," approaching the topic from a historical standpoint and his sermon was well received. Dr. Shank gave the benediction.

McDonald Birch and Company, offering a program of artistic magic, including weird psychic phenomena, delighted Chautauqua patrons at a special junior attraction or children's feature Monday afternoon. The program was given in the midst of real stage settings and Mr. Birch's bag of tricks contained an apparently unlimited number of stunts designed especially for youngsters.

Monday evening the clever dramatic offering, "The Patsy," will be given. Famed for its brilliant dialogue, this comedy success enjoyed long runs in New York and Chicago and was recently put on by a stock company at the Victory Theatre in Dayton.

More entertainment is on the bill for Tuesday. The Conservatory Artists are on the program for the afternoon and quality and variety are combined in this company of five vocalists and instrumentalists. Edgar Sprague, tenor; Dora Andreas, contralto and pianist; Dorothy Kempe, cellist; Marion Kempe, violinist, and Sam Adams, violinist and pianist, comprise this talented group.

In the evening these artists will again be heard preceding a lecture by Ralph Parlette, humorous philosopher, just returned from a world tour. His philosophy is said to be unique, and his community talk, "Swat the Snake," is a classic. Late in May he returned from a world tour after five months of rare experiences.

One of the outstanding events of the "little season" in London was the marriage of the beautiful Joan Yarde-Buller, daughter of Baron and Lady Churston, who was wedded to Noel Guinness, scion of a wealthy Irish family, at St. Margaret's church, while members of the British royal family looked on.

HENRY FORD TAKES IT ALL BACK

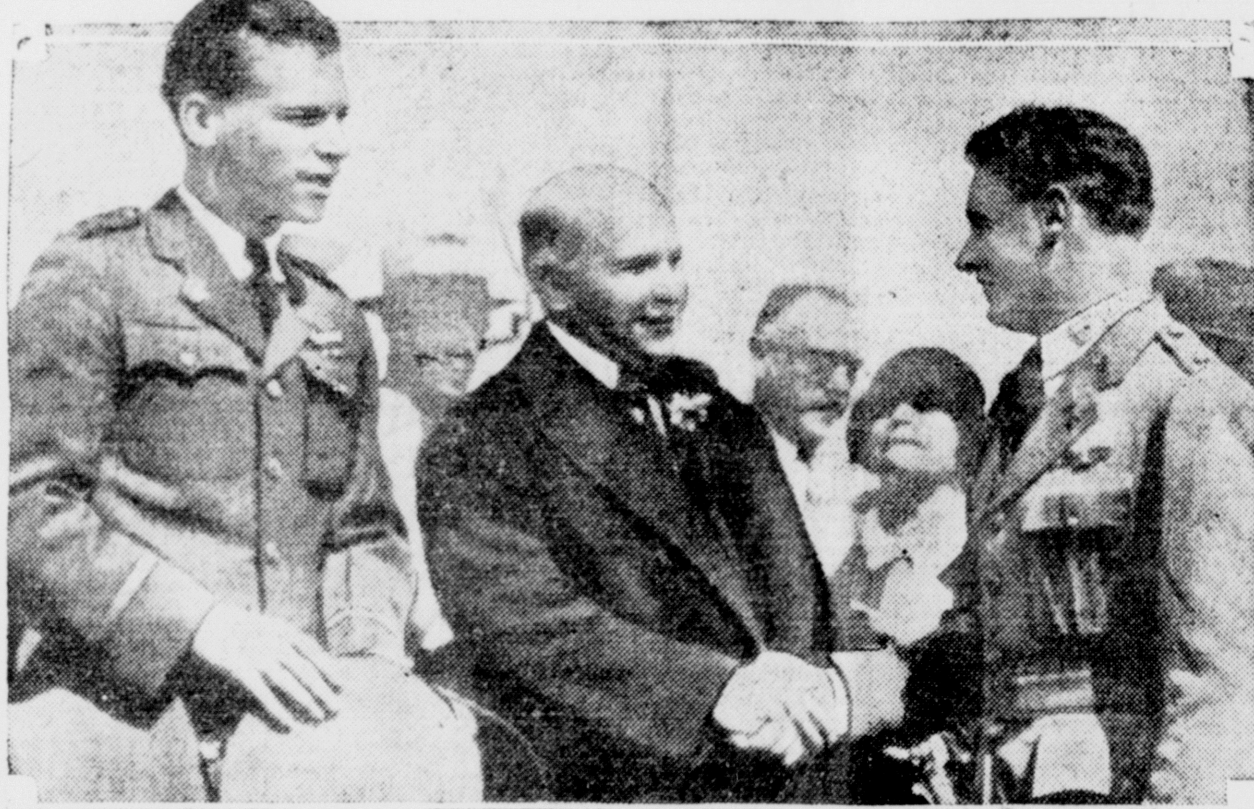

Many of the articles which periodically in The Dearborn Independent and have been reprinted in the pamphlets mentioned, justified the righteous indignation entertained by Jews everywhere toward me because of the mental anguish occasioned by the unprovoked reflections made upon them.

Those who know me can bear witness that it is not in my nature to inflict insult upon and to occasion pain to anybody, and that it has been my effort to free myself from prejudice. Because of that I frankly confess that I have been greatly shocked as a result of my study and examination of the files of The Dearborn Independent and of the pamphlets entitled "The International Jew." I deem it to be my duty as an honorable man to make amends for the wrong done to the Jews as fellow-men and brothers, by asking their forgiveness for the harm that I have unintentionally committed, by retracting so far as lies within my power the offensive charges laid at their door by these publications, and by giving them the unqualified assurance that henceforth they may look to me for friendship and goodwill.

Henry Ford

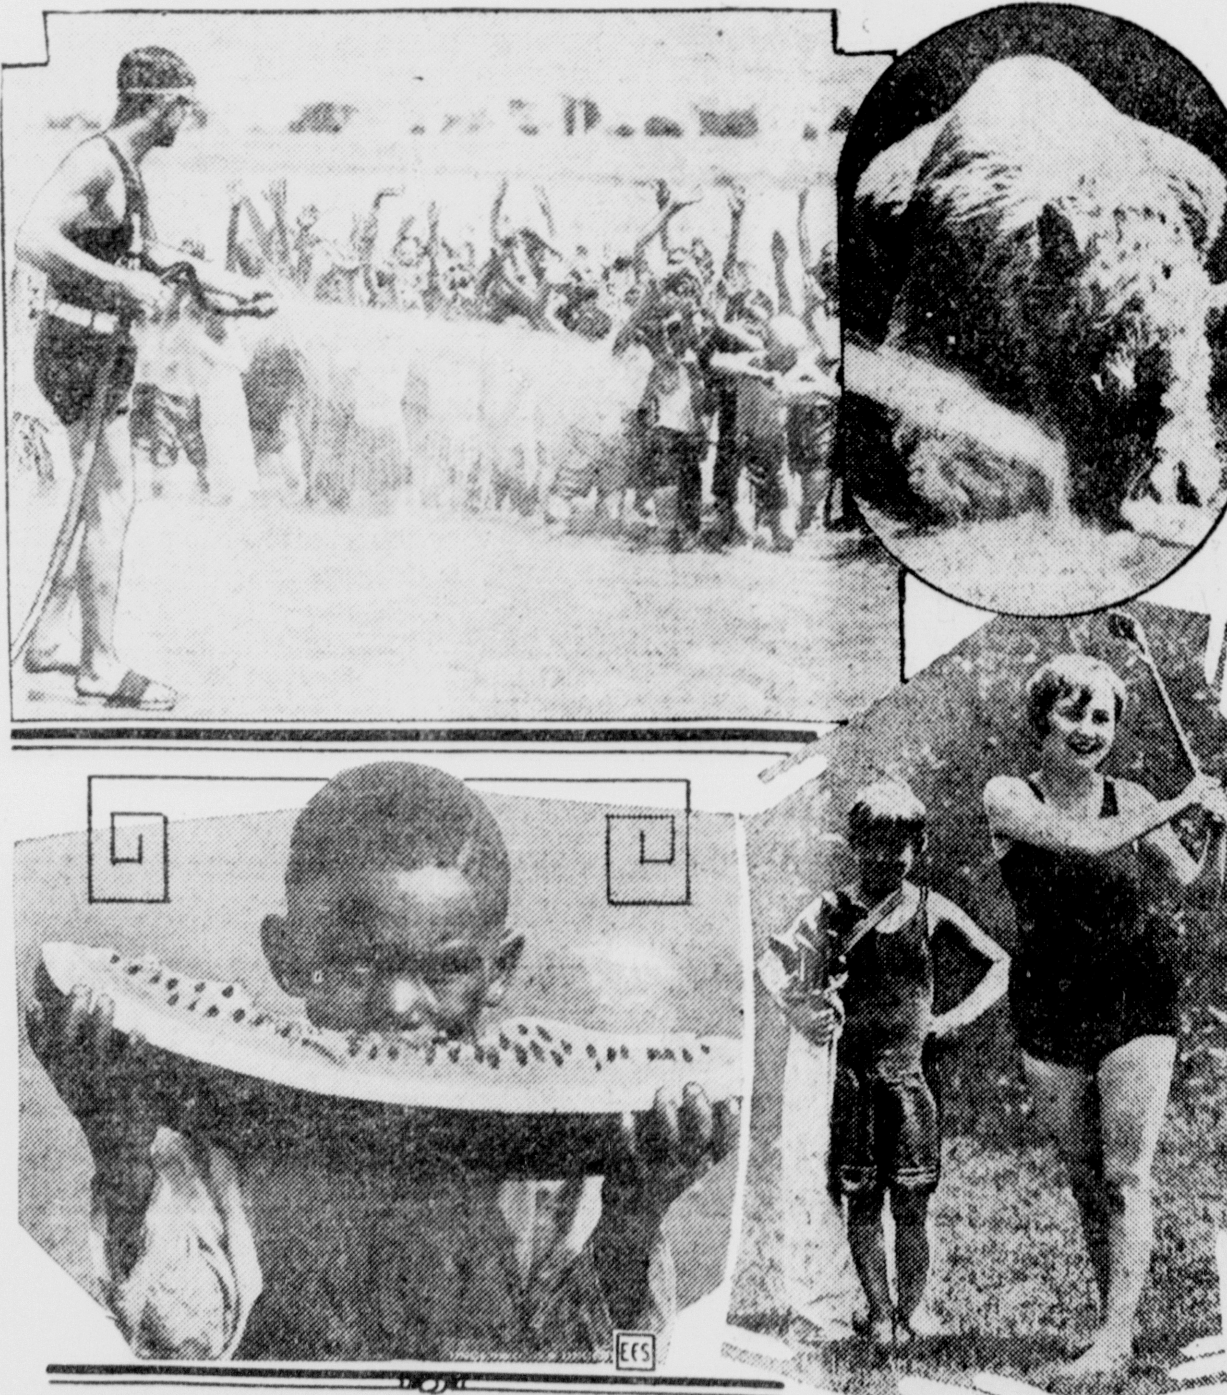

Above is a photographic reproduction of the paragraphs in Henry Ford's typewritten and signed apology for attacks made on the Jewish race in his periodical, The Dearborn Independent, which express his regret and pledge him to friendship and support of the Jewish people in future. Inset is Ford's latest portrait.

HOT? TAKE A LOOK HERE AND COOL OFF

For the benefit of the sweltering citizenry we reproduce here a few portraits of people who don't mind the heat a bit. There is, for example, the group of kids in the upper left corner, who are glad it's hot because they have so much fun getting cooled off; and certainly the polar bear in the upper right corner isn't exercised as long as the supply of ice holds out. On the other hand, summer means a watermelon for Master Jefferson Lee Davis Florien Slappey in the lower left, so he should worry; and a useful hint for perspiring golfers is supplied by Miss Sunny Sullivan of Chicago and her caddy, Harry Wollert.

Weds Hero

Katherine Radcliffe, daughter of a millionaire Welsh ship owner, is now Mrs. L. W. Curtin, wife of the naval flier. The marriage was hastened because the lieutenant plans to fly to France with Rene Fonck in a short time. Miss Radcliffe broke her engagement with an army lieutenant several years ago to elope with George Wise, a Washington dairyman, but her father had the marriage annulled.

SHE'S ENGAGED

Lady Mary Thynne, the youngest daughter of the Marquis of Bath, and one of the most discussed beauties of London society, is engaged to Lord Nunburnholme, according to an official announcement. Lady Mary is 24, and her prospective bridegroom one year younger. She was one of the bridesmaids attending Princess Mary.

Reserves Take Slugfest From Lewisburg Nine

VISITORS THREATEN IN SIXTH BUT LOCALS RETRIEVE VICTORY

Payton Makes Balloon Ascension And Durnbaugh Retires Side—Reserves Fatten Batting Average With 23 Hits.

Although the visitors staged a great sixth inning rally during which they scored nine runs, the Reserves outclutched the Lewisburg, O. White Stars and won 16 to 11 in a wild game that took two hours and twenty minutes to complete Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

The party opened as a tame affair but wound up in a blaze of hits which blasted two Reserve pitchers from the hill and pounded Lewisburg's two, and only two, hurriers to and fro until the hired help decided to call it a day.

Neither pitcher who saw service for Lewisburg was effective against the fury of the Reserve attack which centered in every inning but the fifth.

The visitors appeared to be in a dormant mood throughout the first five innings but the party started getting rough when Russ Payton weakened in the sixth.

Payton did a real Lindbergh 12 this wild stanza and Cyphers was rushed in as a relief pitcher. He was no relief and Durnbaugh had to be finally called in from center field to retire the side. Seven hits, a walk, an error or so and what not were crowded into the wild jamboeree and the round was a nightmare if there ever was one.

The first nine Lewisburg players coming to bat in this round all scored without a man being retired.

Reserves pounded out twenty-three hits off the combined offerings of K. Pierce and Bud Barnhisser, who appeared to alternate almost every inning in the box. Lewisburg clobbered local pitchers for thirteen blows.

Reserves lost little time in getting their scoring operations under way, registering two runs on four hits in the first inning. Three hits produced another marker in the second and three more brought across two tallies in the third. Two singles and an error gave Lewisburg one in the third.

After Keifer and Durnbaugh had doubled in the fourth, Pierce called it an afternoon and Barnhisser took up the pitching burden. Cyphers and Crowl greeted him with singles and then the side was retired with three more counters against the plate.

The fifth inning, for a wonder, passed scored for both sides although the visitors managed to fill the bases.

Then the crash came unexpectedly in the sixth and the Reserve seven-run lead was smashed to smithereens. Rogers opened with a single, Pierce singled, and B. Barnhisser poked out a long double that scored both runners. Bunker blazed out a hit sending Barnhisser to third. On the double steal, Crowl dropped Weller's peg to second and Barnhisser scored. Bunker went to third on a wild pitch. Rice dribbled to third and on the throw to catch Bunker at home, the ball hit him en route and another run scored. Exit Payton. Enter Cyphers. Holman singled. So did Bud Barnhisser, sending Holman to third.

Stocksager rolled to Rader who threw to second to force Barnhisser but Crowl neglected to touch the bag after taking the throw. Hunt cleared the bases with a triple and Cyphers went out. Durnbaugh came into the box and immediately unloosed a wild heave that permitted Hunt to score. He then walked Rogers, up for the second time, but the next three batters were easy outs.

Durnbaugh then gave a marvelous pitching exhibition striking out three straight batters in the seventh and the first two in the eighth before Rogers tripled and Pierce singled for Lewisburg's final run of the game. Durnbaugh gets credit for the win.

In the face of all this, the Reserves had heart enough to give chase and finally overhaul Lewisburg. Two errors, two singles and a sacrifice fly combined to manufacture one run in the sixth. With Pierce back in the box in the seventh, Reserves tallied four times with the aid of two hits and a couple of errors. Barnhisser then returned to the mound and was pasted for four hits and three added runs in the eighth.

All Reserve players hit well. Cyphers came out of his slump to make four hits while Johnson, Keifer, Crowl and Payton each obtained three. Scott and Durnbaugh helped out with two apiece. Rogers made three hits for the opposition including a double and triple. Crowl appeared to be a find.

The game was played under unbelievable weather conditions for the diamond was in bad shape from rain. The contest was also marred by almost constant umpire bailing, fans and players alike taking exception to most of Brannigan's decisions.

One in particular occurred when Crowl had singled with one down. The Reserve player strolled back along the base line to pick up his cap before another ball was pitched without touching the bag against or stepping on the playing field. The Lewisburg pitcher threw to first and the first baseman touched the runner out and then reversed the decision.

Reserves will have plenty of opposition next Sunday here when the Richmond, Ind. nine appears in Xenia.

Richmond will have a man in the box that is a pitcher in name as well as in fact. His name is P. S. Pitcher, hailing from Boston, Mass. Richmond possesses one of the strongest clubs in that state. Hod Eller, Cincinnati star hurler eight years ago, now a policeman at Terre Haute, Ind., played with Richmond this season.

Although the visitors staged a great sixth inning rally during which they scored nine runs, the Reserves outclutched the Lewisburg, O. White Stars and won 16 to 11 in a wild game that took two hours and twenty minutes to complete Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

TAX-PAYERS HURRY TO MAKE PAYMENTS

These are busy days for the county treasurer's office.

With the date for the June collection of taxes expiring Wednesday, July 20, taxpayers are streaming into the treasurer's office to make long-delayed payments in order to avoid delinquency.

However, many accounts remained unsatisfied on the treasurer's books at the close of business Saturday afternoon, it is announced.

The usual rush to make payments is anticipated in the few remaining days of grace.

Wednesday is announced as positively the final day for receiving taxes without delinquency, as no more extensions of time will be granted.

5c DOES IT!

It Buys a Good Cigar Any Place, Any Time, if You Know the Password

"But will it?" you say, thinking of the typical five-center that claims to be worth more. Can't blame you for asking.

At the same time, there is a fine, fragrant cigar on the market today at just five cents. There is a smoke to be bought for a nickel now that used to cost more years ago. That sold big for thirty years. That sold better than ever today.

The name is Havana Ribbon. Will you forget the old-time five-center, the old-time ideas of cigar prices and buy just one Havana Ribbon on quality alone? If you will, you are going to get the smoke surprise of your life. You're going to buy mellowness, mildness, rich ripe tobacco—satisfaction!

Don't be afraid of Havana Ribbon. We can offer quality at the price because we make the cigar in the millions. If you'll only try it, you'll forget the price.

CHURCH MEETING TO HEAR INDIA NATIVE

Unusual interest is being centered in the appearance of Mrs. Mary Samuels, native of India, who is to speak at a Presbyterian meeting of the United Presbyterian Churches of the Xenia area, at the Second Church Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuels came to the United States this spring as the guest of the Women's Missionary Societies and has created widespread interest through the messages she has given at the General Assembly at Washington, D. C. in May and also at the national convention of the Women's General Missionary Society at Pittsburgh, Kansas, where she appeared each day on the program.

From Xenia she will go to New Concord, O., to address the Muskingum Bible Conference. She speaks perfect English and her messages are of a deeply inspirational order. It is said, A hearty invitation is extended by the local committee to the entire community, men and women, boys and girls to hear Mrs. Samuels at 2 o'clock. At 12:30 p. m. the women of the Presbyterian will enjoy a "covered dish" picnic dinner at the Second Church.

QUOIT CLUB FACES RIVERDALE CLUB

The Xenia Quoit Club faces probably its most difficult Miami Valley Quoit League match of the remaining schedule Monday night, meeting the pace-setting Dayton Riverdale Club on the E. Market St. courts.

Riverdale trimmed Xenia 13 to 5 in the first match of the season here, but the local team retaliated by holding the league leaders to a tie score in a return match at Dayton.

The match will start at 8 o'clock and all Xenia players are requested to be present without fail.

EAST END NEWS

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Schearer will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Middle Run Baptist Church with interment in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

ELECTION BOARD IS PREPARING TO HAVE BALLOTS PRINTED

Board of Elections, at a recent meeting, approved the petitions filed by eight candidates for City Commission, subject to the August 9 primary.

The board also ordered that bids be advertised for ballots and supplies for the primary. As 2,800 citizens voted at the last gubernatorial election, about 25 per cent in excess of this number will be needed, and must be printed, to be prepared against a deficiency.

Voters are being warned by the board to show their preference for only two candidates in marking ballots at the primary. If votes are cast for more than two of the eight candidates, these ballots will be lost.

Only two vacancies occur, and four of the eight candidates will be eliminated at the primary. The four receiving the highest number of votes become eligible for the regular November election.

Voters should also vote for but two of these four candidates at the November election. At the final election, the two candidates obtaining the greatest number of votes will be elected commissioners.

Pipe smokers:

For good taste and superb smoking qualities . . . just try it!

"GIVE GRANGER a fancy name," a tobacco dealer writes us, "put it in a fancy package and it'll bring as fancy a price as any tobacco."

Our friend is probably right . . . For we know of no other tobacco that offers pipe smokers more in good taste and superb smoking qualities . . .

But it's the fact that Granger is packed without frills, in heavy foil instead of costly tin, that makes possible a price far below any other tobacco of equivalent quality!

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, 20 and clever and pretty, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has been separated from her mother for nine years.

The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the lone, BEAT, the apple of his mother's eye, and MILLIE, a young sten, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for MR. PEEVEY downtown afternoon.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an auto salesman who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom Sally is interested is JOHN NYE, whose office is just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye has hired the flirtatious Millie as his secretary, and Millie is waiting to take the job as soon as he returns from a trip to see his mother, who is ill at a summer resort. Millie, out of work for the time being, borrows from Sally to "ride her over" until she starts work. Beau borrows some money, too, and tricks Sally into paying for the refreshments for a party given at the flat by his girl, MABEL WILMOT. Mabel is always dropping into the flat quite as if it were her own home, taking Sally and when she stays all night, and ordering what she wants to eat for breakfast, and so on.

One Saturday night Beau, who has been practically penniless for a week, blossoms out with some new clothes and ties, to say nothing of a guitar. In addition he lends Millie some money to buy herself a dress that she has been wanting. Sally wonders where he got a sudden flood of money, and begins to worry about him when he asks her if she has any, and promises to pay her money if at short notice. For Beau works at a bank, where he is constantly surrounded by money. The next day Sally leaves the Sunday dinner to cook while she does some extra work for Mr. Peevey. When she returns early in the afternoon she finds that note from Millie saying that the family have all gone for a drive with a friend of hers named DAVIDSON and will bring him back with them to supper.

CHAPTER XIII

Sally felt about the flat putting things in order.

While she worked she kept the photograph of Beau and the sound of his gay music made the work seem light and easy. It always did when she thought of him. There was a span, and the table was set for a cold supper. The lamb was sliced and garnished with parsley and a mound of mint jelly. There was a salad and a lettuce of iced tea in readiness in the ice box. There was a plate of lettuce sandwiches, too, but no dessert. One of Sally's small economies was to leave out dessert when there was a salad for a meal.

"Well, now the cook and housemaid will turn herself into a lady of fashion," she said, "and she will be so busy that she will not have time to dress."

It was pleasant to have the bedroom to herself. To slip out of her clothes into an icy shower, and then into fresh, clean things. To dawdle before the mirror, dusting violet-scented powder on her face, and then to look at the new dress she had bought for her pointed fingers.

She was cool and fragrant in an old brown linen dress when the front doorbell rang. She opened the door, expecting to see the family crowded into the hall, but there was no one there. It was only her shirt sleeves.

"Is Beau here?" he asked shortly, looking beyond her into the empty living room.

Sally shook her head. "No, he's been gone all day," she said. "The whole family went for a drive with that friend of Millie's you met the other night—that Mr. Davidson. They said they'd be back for supper."

"Well, I'll come in for a while and wait. I ought to see Beau tonight on a little matter of business. Here's a new record I bought for you last night. Ted handed her a new dance record for the phonograph. Every now and then he bought one for her instead of taking her to the movies or for an evening of dancing. Ted had to count the pennies, too, just as she did."

"A new record had an entrancing melody, and Ted sang the words, setting in Mrs. Jerome's old green velvet chair."

"I could be happy. I could be good. I could be bad."

"It all depends on you—"

"Lot of truth in that song, Sally," he said, breaking off in the middle. "A man can do anything—anything at all. You see, it all depends on the girl he's crazy about. She can make him do anything she wants him to, and she can break him, too."

He looked down at her soberly, puffing at his little old brown pipe. He had been extremely sober and serious ever since the night she had called him a "poor palooka," and heaved him not to make love to her. Tonight he was more than sober. Something seemed to weigh heavily upon his mind. His gray eyes, usually so twinkling, had a frown between them.

"I could make money or spend it," he went on singing in an undertone.

"My sister's out of a job," she told him wistfully.

tone as the music rippled along.

"Go right on living on—"

"What did you want to see Beau about? Money?" asked Sally quickly. The word "money" on Ted's lips had brought back all her doubts about Beau and his mysterious riches into her mind.

"Yeah," Ted answered. "He borrowed some from me—that is, I gave him a check for it the other day—and he promised to pay me today."

She gave a keen little sigh of relief. "So that was it! Beau had borrowed the money from Ted Sloan."

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Here's a new one you will like.

Fluffy-Tail! You'll know by sight.

When Betty Ann first heard that a big, red bushy-tailed squirrel had been caught in the trap that Bill had set up in Marty's yard, she could hardly believe her ears. Of course, she knew lots of people who had pet squirrels living in their trees that would come and eat nuts from their hands but she had never been able to coax one into her yard, even though she scattered nuts for them. "Maybe the trees weren't large enough," she had declared.

But now she would have a pet squirrel, too, or at least a part of one because it really belonged to the Ritzie club and she was just one of the six club members. Oh, well, a sixth of a squirrel was better than none at all! And she knew the boys well enough to know that they had most of their fun in catching it and that it would be up to Patsy and her to feed it and look after it.

"Oh, it is just too good to be true," she cried as she petted the soft, red fur of Fluffy-Tail as they decided to call the squirrel. Funny how tame it was. It must have been used to having people feed it nuts.

"What kind of a pen are you going to build for it?" asked Patsy.

Its present home was a big store box covered with wire netting.

They had branches and leaves and soft grass over the bottom of the box but of course that was only a temporary home. It would have to have more freedom than a big box or it would get sick and die.

Marty, who was starting up into a nearby tree, didn't hear Patsy's question or at least didn't answer it if he did and the twins, who had always kept their rabbits in the kind of a pen that the squirrel was now living in, didn't have any suggestions to make.

"I believe I can do it!" said

Marty, suddenly.

"Do what?" asked the rest of the Ritzies who had been wondering what he had been staring at up in the tree.

"Make a tree-house," he answered, still gazing at the branches.

"A tree-house!" asked his puzzled playmates.

"Yes, a tree-house for Fluffy-

Tail," explained Marty. "See, never would be really happy unless she could scamper up and down a tree and bury her nuts in the ground at the bottom."

"That would be wonderful!" exclaimed Patsy. "Oh, please try hard to do it, Marty. We'll all help."

"I'll make you some chocolate fudge if you do," promised Betty

Ann.

"I saw a tree house at a zoo once," said Tag. "I've got the idea enough that I think I can help."

With so much encouragement and offered assistance, Marty felt sure that he ought to be able to make some kind of a home for Fluffy-Tail though it might not be one of which his manual training teacher at school would approve.

Of course, the first thing was to find the right tree. It must be large enough to make a nice shade and have big roots that the squirrel could burrow under but it must be young enough so that the branches would be near the ground. Otherwise, the Ritzies would never be able to build the house around them.

There wasn't a tree in the Collins' yard that seemed to fill the bill but when just the kind of a tree was found in Betty Ann's yard, this Ritzie was as happy as she could be.

There was a big decayed hollow in the tree that would make a dandy nest for Fluffy-Tail and the branches were all knotted and rough. Just the kind that a squirrel would love to climb about on!

Marty got busy with his measuring rule and from the business-like way in which he set at things it looked as if Fluffy-Tail wouldn't have to stay long in the wire-covered box.

Read about the progress of the tree-house in tomorrow's story.

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE

By Marjorie K. Rawlings

SPRING IS A HOUSEWIFE

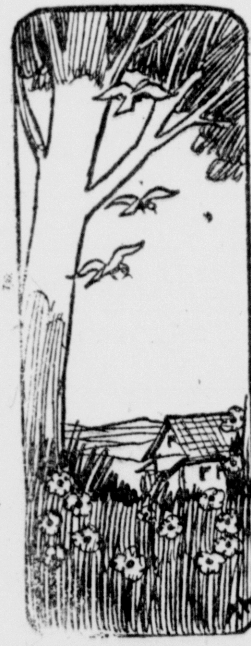

SPRING is a housewife, full of vim To clean the musty world. Winter? She has no use for him, About his hearth-fire curled!

She tweeks him by his reddened nose And sings her battle-song. She makes him pack his tattered clothes And move his bones along.

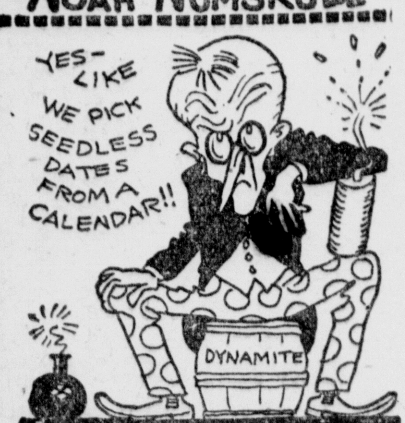

She blows out smoke he left behind, His ashes, grime and soot. She has Spring cleaning on her mind, And housework is a-foot.

Then when his tracks are cleared away She brings out song and sun, Decks out the world with posies gay— Her housewife's job is done!

VACATION BOOKS LIBRARY FEATURE

Special privileges, permitting vacationists to enjoy books from the Greene County District Library during their stay away, are pointed out by Miss Mildred W. Sandoe, district librarian.

Many readers of library books leave the city for long or short periods each summer, Miss Sandoe says, many going to places where books are hard to obtain, although they would be much appreciated if available.

"If you are going to such a place, don't forget that the vacation privilege now in force at the library permits library borrowers to take along six books for a period of four weeks," Miss Sandoe says. "Of course, these books must not be the seven-day ones. Any others may be drawn in this way."

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

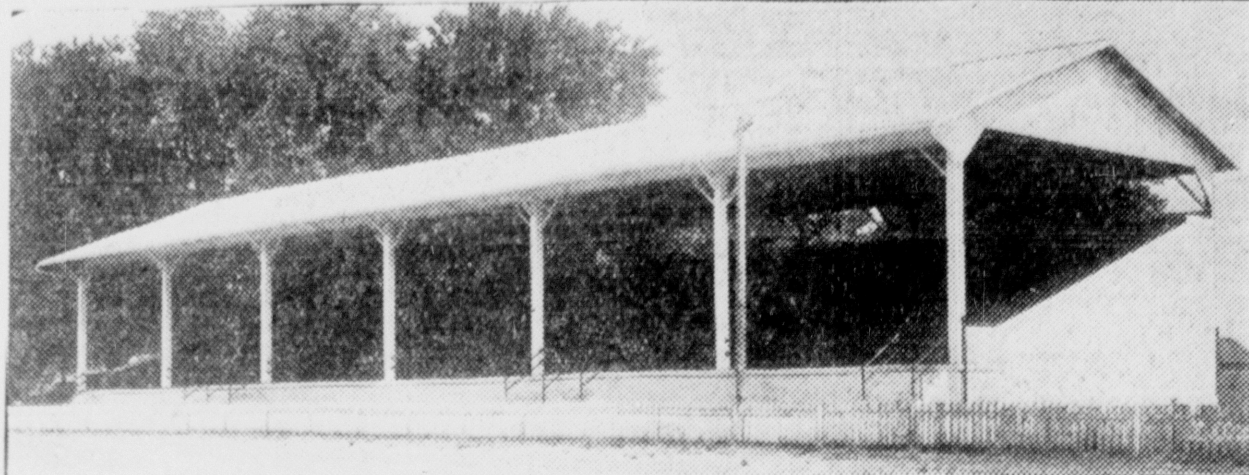

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

FAIRFIELD MAN IS HELD AFTER ATTACK

Charged with loitering in connection with an alleged attack on an eight-year-old girl on Springfield St. in Dayton, Thursday, Robert W. Morris, 29, Wright Field, was held under $500 bond for a hearing Wednesday, when arraigned in the Dayton Police Court Friday.

After it is charged, he attacked the girl, Morris was pursued by bystanders, including men and boys, but stopped in front of a policeman's home and drew a pocket knife to defend himself. The officer stepped out of the house on hearing the disturbance and arrested him, after listening to the accusations of the crowd. The girl had meanwhile fled and could not be found. In the absence of her testimony, Morris was not charged with a more serious offense.
